remain at the forefront of the world order      Who Wins? Patricia L. Sullivan (Ph. D.), Patricia Sullivan, 2012-07-16 Why are states with tremendous military might so often unable to attain their objectives when they use force against weaker adversaries Who Wins by Patricia L Sullivan argues that the key to understanding strategic success in war lies in the nature of the political objectives states pursue through the use of military force      The Journal of Military History, 2007

Drones and Global Order Paul Lushenko, Srinjoy Bose, William Maley, 2021-12-28 This book explores the implications of drone warfare for the legitimacy of global order. The literature on drone warfare has evolved from studying the proliferation of drones to measuring their effectiveness to exploring their legal, moral, and ethical impacts. These three waves of scholarship do not, however, address the implications of drone warfare for global order. This book fills the gap by contributing to a fourth wave of literature concerned with the trade offs imposed by drone warfare for global order. The book draws on the English School of International Relations Theory, which is premised on the existence of a society of states bounded by common norms, values, and institutions, to argue that drone warfare imposes contradictions on the structural and normative pillars of global order. These consist of the structure of international society and diffusion of military capabilities, as well as the sovereign equality of states and laws of armed conflict. The book presents a typology of contradictions imposed by drone warfare within and across these axes that threaten the legitimacy of global order. This framework also suggests a confounding consequence of drone warfare that scholars have not hitherto explored: rigorously drone warfare can sometimes strengthen global order. The volume concludes by proposing a research agenda to reconcile the complex and often counter-intuitive impacts of drone warfare for global order. This book will be of considerable interest to students of security studies, global governance, and International Relations.

human security and international ethics Each chapter includes a 400 word case study More examples from the developing world    Globalization and Transatlantic Security Rachel A. Epstein,Pascal Venesson,2006    Military Economics Ron Smith,2009-10-29 Military power needs to be financed and economic development is often shaped by military conflict thus the interaction of military and economy power and money is central to the modern world This book provides an accessible introduction to the economics of the use of organised force with a wide range of historical and current examples      Ron Tira,2007    Merchants of African Conflict Sabelo Gumede,2011 Despite their tarnished image private military and security companies PMSCs continue to feature in almost every African conflict Their presence in conflict zones presents a plethora of challenges as they generally remain unregulated and uncontrolled Initiatives aimed at addressing the involvement of PMSCs in conflict theatres have thus far also proved to be ineffective The engagement in vigorous multidisciplinary approaches aimed at championing and improving these initiatives remains critical in addressing the insecurities posed by these merchants of conflict particularly in Africa This monograph is intended to make a modest contribution to this complex yet interesting discourse through various authors presenting diverse and fascinating perspectives    The Utility of Force Patricia Lynne Sullivan,2004    Rational Theory of International Politics Charles Louis Glaser,2010 Why do states sometimes compete and wage war while at other times they cooperate and pursue peace Does competition reflect pressures generated by the anarchic international system or rather states own expansionist goals This title offers a theory of international politics that identifies the kinds of variables that influence a state's strategy

Naval War College Review ,2008    America, History and Life ,2007 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada    The 2006 Lebanon Campaign and the Future of Warfare Stephen D. Biddle,Jeffrey A. Friedman,2008 Hezbollah's conduct of its 2006 campaign in southern Lebanon has become an increasingly important case for the US defense debate Some see the future of warfare as one of nonstate opponents employing irregular methods and advocate a sweeping transformation of the US military to meet such threats Others point to the 2006 campaign as an example of a nonstate actor nevertheless waging a state like conventional war and argue that a more traditional US military posture is needed to deal with such enemies in the future This monograph seeks to inform this debate by examining in detail Hezbollah's conduct of the 2006 campaign The authors use evidence collected from a series of 36 primary source interviews with Israeli participants in the fighting who were in a position to observe Hezbollah's actual behavior in the field in 2006 coupled with deductive inference from observable Hezbollah behavior in the field to findings for their larger strategic intent for the campaign    Battles as Information Kristopher Barrett Grady,2008 The received literature indicates that domestic political institutions afford accountability over the executive of a state This finding is especially applicable to war policy given the enormous costs and stakes endogenous to a war The constraints placed upon the executive are exerted by a group of actors who have the ability to remove and or punish if in a post hoc review a war turns out to be sufficiently deleterious to their interests The specter of future sanction is thought to condition executive behavior but what if domestic political figures do not forestall judgment until the end of a conflict Assuming the ability of the enfranchised members of a state to evaluate ongoing war policies evidence of domestic political pressure might inspire a change in these policies prior to the end of a war Instead of war outcome and duration being determined by the prospect of sanction after a war s conclusion the threat of executive sanction might affect the conduct of the war well before its conclusion Abstract
