Crusade, Settlement and Historical Writing in the Latin East and Latin West, C. 1100-c. 1300 Andrew D. Buck, James H. Kane, Stephen J. Spencer, 2024 This collection offers a holistic understanding of the impact of both crusading and settlement on the literary cultures of Latin Christendom. The period between the First Crusade and the collapse of the crusader states in the eastern Mediterranean was a crucial one for medieval historical writing. From the departure of the earliest crusading armies in 1096 to the Mamluk conquest of the Latin states in the late thirteenth century, crusading activity and the settlements it established and aimed to protect generated a vast textual output offering rich insights into the historiographical cultures of the Latin West and Latin East. However, modern scholarship on the crusades and the crusader states has tended to draw an artificial boundary between the two, even though medieval writers treated their histories as virtually indistinguishable. This volume places these spheres into dialogue with each other, looking at how individual crusading campaigns and the Frankish settlements in the eastern Mediterranean were depicted and remembered in the central Middle Ages. Its essays cover a geographical range that incorporates England, France, Germany, southern Italy and the Holy Land, and address such topics as gender, emotion, the natural world, crusading as an institution, origin myths, textual reception, forms of storytelling and historical genre. Bringing to the foreground neglected sources, methodologies, events and regions of textual production, the collection offers a holistic understanding of the impact of both crusading and settlement on the literary cultures of Latin Christendom.

Saracens John Victor Tolan,2002 Medieval Christian writers distorted the teachings of Islam and caricatured its believers in a variety of ways This book provides a comprehensive study of Christian polemical responses to Islam in the Middle Ages Medieval Frontiers: Concepts and Practices David Abulafia,Nora Berend,2017-03-02 In recent years the medieval frontier has been the subject of extensive research But the term has been understood in many different ways political boundaries fuzzy lines across which trade religions and ideas cross attitudes to other peoples and their customs This book draws attention to the differences between the medieval and modern understanding of frontiers questioning the traditional use of the concepts of frontier and frontier society It contributes to the understanding of physical boundaries as well as metaphorical and ideological frontiers thus providing a background to present day issues of political and cultural delimitation In a major introduction David Abulafia analyses these various ambiguous meanings of the term frontier in political cultural and religious settings The articles that follow span Europe from the Baltic to Iberia from the Canary Islands to central Europe Byzantium and the Crusader states The authors ask what was perceived as a frontier during the Middle Ages What was not seen as a frontier despite the usage in modern scholarship The articles focus on a number of themes to elucidate these two main questions One is medieval ideology This includes the analysis of medieval formulations of what frontiers should be and how rulers had a duty to defend and or extend the frontiers how frontiers were defined often in a different way in rhetorical ideological formulations than in practice and how in certain areas frontier ideologies were created The other main topic is the emergence of frontiers how medieval people created frontiers to delimit areas how they understood and described frontiers The third theme is that of encounters and a questioning of medieval attitudes to such encounters To what extent did medieval observers see a frontier between themselves and other groups and how does real interaction compare with ideological or narrative formulations of such interaction Anglo-Norman Studies XX Christopher Harper-Bill,1998 The Anglo Norman world with particular focus on the Normans in Ireland Founded by Professor R Allen Brown the Battle Conference this year celebrates its 20th meeting in Dublin with a particular focus on Irish topics Anglo Norman Studies published annually and containing the papers presented at the conference is established as the single most important publication in the field as a glance at bibliographies of the period will confirm covering not only matters relating to pre and post Conquest England and France but also the activities and influences of the Normans on the wider European

Mänd,Marek Tamm,2020-06-09 The region called Livonia corresponding to modern Estonia and Latvia emerged out of the rapid transformation caused by the conquest Christianisation and colonisation on the north east shore of the Baltic Sea in the late twelfth and the early thirteenth centuries These radical changes have received increasing scholarly notice over the last few decades However less attention has been devoted to the interplay between the new and the old structures and actors in a longer perspective This volume aims to study these interplays and explores the history of Livonia by concentrating on various actors and networks from the late twelfth to the seventeenth century But on a deeper level the goal is more ambitious to investigate the foundation of an increasingly complex and heterogeneous society on the medieval and early modern Baltic frontier the making of Livonia Toleration and the Reformation Joseph Lecler,1960
