Networks And Institutions In Natural Resource Management:

Networks and Institutions in Natural Resource Management Y. Rydin,2006-01-01 Managing natural resources sustainably is a complex task that demands the involvement of many different stakeholders Network arrangements are used to try and achieve such sustainable management This book assesses the practice of such networks using case studies of landscape habitat and water management from England Sweden Spain and Zimbabwe Improved Natural Resource Management Henrik Secher Marcussen,1996 Sustainable Development on Water Resources Management, Policy and Governance in a Changing World Murat Eyvaz,Zhanhong Wan,Sajjad Ahmad,Rongrong Wan,2023-11-28 Potentials and Obstacles in the Arena of Conflict and Natural Resource Management Maria Brockhaus,2005 Researching Institutions in Natural Resource Governance Fiona Nunan,2024-12-06 This book presents an overview of different data collection methods and approaches that have been used to identify and analyse institutions associated with natural resource governance Institutions as rules of the game are fundamental to the management governance and use of renewable natural resources such as fisheries forests and water Yet researching institutions particularly informal institutions can be challenging as they can be difficult to identify investigate and understand This volume tackles this challenge head on The innovative collection brings together contributions from different disciplines and traditions reporting and reflecting on a range of qualitative and quantitative research methods and experiences The book begins by reviewing definitions and typologies of institutions and introduces different approaches to researching institutions in natural resource governance namely the Bloomington School associated with Elinor Ostrom and Critical Institutionalism Following this each chapter provides an overview and example of application of research approaches and methods including mixed methods institutional grammar fuzzy cognitive mapping network analysis assemblage and ethnography The concluding chapter identifies key insights into institutions and lessons on researching institutions From these the chapter provides a set of observations on researching institutions in natural resource governance with the aim of providing guidance for new and experienced researchers The volume provides an essential introduction for students and researchers into the range of methods and approaches and their practical application that can be used to research institutions associated with natural resource governance The Formation and Transformation of Local Institutions in Community-based Natural Resource Management Jianping Wang,2008 Natural Resources Management Networking in Cambodia Amanda Bradley,2005 Annual Report IICA 2000 , Social Networks and Natural Resource Management Örjan Bodin,Christina Prell,2011-08-04 Social Network Analysis SNA a quantitative approach to the study of social relations has recently emerged as a key tool for understanding the governance of natural resources Bringing together contributions from a range of researchers in the field this is the first book to fully explore the potential applications of SNA in the context of natural resource management Topics covered include the role of SNA in stakeholder selection improving fisheries management and conservation the effect of social network ties on public satisfaction and agrarian communication networks Numerous case studies link SNA concepts to the theories underlying natural resource governance such as social learning adaptive co management and social movements theory Reflecting on the challenges and opportunities associated with this evolving field this is an ideal resource for students and researchers involved in many areas of natural resource management environmental biology sustainability science and sociology

Development Through Bricolage Frances Cleaver, 2017-09-25 Why despite an emphasis on getting institutions right do development initiatives so infrequently deliver as planned Why do many institutions designed for natural resource management e.g. Water User Associations Irrigation Committees Forest Management Councils not work as planners intended This book disputes the model of development by design and argues that institutions are formed through the uneven patching together of old practices and accepted norms with new arrangements The managing of natural resources and delivery of development through such processes of bricolage is likened to institutional DIY rather than engineering or design The author explores the processes involved in institutional bricolage the constant renegotiation of norms the reinvention of tradition the importance of legitimate authority and the role of people themselves in shaping such arrangements Bricolage is seen as an inevitable but not always benign process the extent to which it reproduces social inequalities or creates space for challenging them is also considered The book draws on a number of contemporary strands of development thinking about collective action participation governance natural resource management political ecology and wellbeing It synthesises these to develop new understandings of why and how people act to manage resources and how access is secured or denied A variety of case studies ranging from the management of water Zimbabwe India Pakistan conflict and cooperation over land grazing and water Tanzania and the emergence of community management of forests Sweden Nepal illustrate the context specific and generalised nature of bricolage and the resultant challenges for development policy and practice
