Response to Terror Threats Aaron Richman, Shmuel C. Shapira, Yair Sharan, 2010 We do not automatically associate the practice of medicine with al Qaeda or weapons of mass destruction yet medical practitioners increasingly play their part in the war against terrorism Called to risk their own lives in order to help others they are always among those first responders who must overcome their natural instinct to get away and instead rush to the scene of any fresh terror attack to offer what aid they can to the victims The successful medical response to terror threats requires regular training and accurate information This book is one product of the NATO workshop Terror Medicine held in Jerusalem in 2008 The twelve chapters were written by the subject matter experts who led this workshop and topics covered include assessment of medical threats in various types of terrorist attack the special medical threat of suicide bombings the unique epidemiology of terrorist attacks management of terror related mass casualty events MCE analysis of case studies and best practices as well as lessons learned and standard operating protocol SOP expertise Reflecting multiple lifetimes worth of experience and research and providing expert analysis to the professionals who must respond to the hazards threats and injuries caused by terrorism this book is an important addition to the resources of those who continue to fight global terrorism with their medical skills as well as being of interest to all who support them in that fight Terrorism and Medical Responses: U.S. Lessons and Policy

Implications Yonah Alexander, Stephen Prior, 2021-10-25 U S assets and citizens remain the number one target of international terrorism The events of September 11th clearly show the dimensions such attacks can reach This volume catalyzes the thinking of the medical community and informs those who will rely on it capabilities in these uncertain times Terrorism and Medical Responses U S Lessons and Policy Implications is an initiative undertaken by the International Center for Terrorism Studies ICTS and the National Security Health Policy Center NSHPC both at the Potomac Institute for Policy Studies and aims at improving medical response in this important area of public concern Published under the Transnational Publishers imprint Preparing for Terrorism Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Evaluation of the Metropolitan Medical Response System Program, 2002-07-11 The Metropolitan Medical Response System MMRS program of the U S Department of Health and Human Services DHHS provides funds to major U S cities to help them develop plans for coping with the health and medical consequences of a terrorist attack with chemical biological or radiological CBR agents DHHS asked the Institute of Medicine IOM to assist in assessing the effectiveness of the MMRS program by developing appropriate evaluation methods tools and processes to assess both its own management of the program and local preparedness in the cities that have participated in the program This book provides the managers of the MMRS program and others concerned about local capabilities to cope with CBR terrorism with three evaluation tools and a three part assessment method The tools are a questionnaire survey eliciting feedback about the management of the MMRS program a table of preparedness indicators for 23 essential response capabilities and a set of three scenarios and related questions for group discussion The assessment method described integrates document inspection a site visit by a team of expert peer reviewers and observations at community exercises and drills

Community Preparedness and Response to Terrorism: The terrorist threat and community response James A. Johnson, Mark A. Cwiek, 2005 What can we do to protect ourselves from a terrorist attack and how can communities respond most effectively when the unthinkable happens The next large scale terrorist attack on the United States could be carried out using any number of agents and delivery methods including anthrax smallpox the water system the agriculture industry threats to bridges tunnels trains airlines and other transportation systems suicide bombings in crowded cities convention centers and shopping malls the possibilities are many but not endless Local preparation is critical Until now scant attention has been paid to the role of communities in preparing for and responding to terrorism This invaluable set covers chemical biological radiological nuclear and explosive scenarios Throughout the focus is on community preparedness and response Volume I The Terrorist Threat and Community Response focuses on local state regional and federal coordination of efforts and interaction

Tools for Evaluating the Metropolitan Medical Response System Program Institute of

Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Evaluation of the Metropolitan Medical Response Program, 2001-10-25 The U S Department of Health and Human Services Metropolitan Medical Response MMRS program has evolved from an idea originally developed in the Washington D C area in 1995 Using the combined personnel and equipment resources from Washington D C Arlington County in Virginia and Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties in Maryland the Metropolitan Medical Strike Team MMST received training equipment and supplies specifically designed to facilitate an effective response to a mass casualty terrorism incident with a weapon of mass destruction WMD The first of its kind in the civilian environment the MMST was intended to be capable of providing initial on site emergency health medical and mental health services after a terrorist incident involving chemical biological or radiological CBR materials The team s mission includes CBR agent detection and identification patient decontamination triage and medical treatment emergency transportation of patients to local hospitals coordination of movement of patients to more distant hospitals via the National Disaster Medical System NDMS and planning for the disposition of nonsurvivors Building from the initial efforts of the Washington D C Metropolitan Area MMST OEP provided funding for the development of a similar team in the city of Atlanta in preparation for the 1996 Summer Olympic Games The U S Congress has subsequently authorized and provided funding for additional contracts with the 120 most populous U S cities Tools for Evaluating the Metropolitan Medical REsponse System Program Phase I Report identifies and develops performance measures and systems to assess the effectiveness of and to identify barriers related to the MMRS development process This report identifies recommends and develops performance measures and systems to assess the effectiveness of and identify barriers related to the MMRS development process at the site jurisdictional and governmental levels

Chemical and Biological Terrorism Institute of Medicine, Committee on R&D Needs for Improving Civilian Medical Response to Chemical and Biological Terrorism Incidents, 1999-02-12 The threat of domestic terrorism today looms larger than ever Bombings at the World Trade Center and Oklahoma City s Federal Building as well as nerve gas attacks in Japan have made it tragically obvious that American civilians must be ready for terrorist attacks What do we need to know to help emergency and medical personnel prepare for these attacks Chemical and Biological Terrorism identifies the R D efforts needed to implement recommendations in key areas pre incident intelligence detection and identification of chemical and biological agents protective clothing and equipment early recognition that a population has been covertly exposed to a pathogen mass casualty decontamination and triage use of vaccines and pharmaceuticals and the psychological effects of terror Specific objectives for computer software development are also identified The book addresses the differences between a biological and chemical attack the distinct challenges to the military and civilian medical communities and other broader issues This book will be of critical interest to anyone involved in civilian preparedness for terrorist attack planners administrators responders medical professionals public health and emergency personnel and technology designers and engineers

Assessing Medical Preparedness to Respond to a Terrorist

Nuclear Event Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Medical Preparedness for a Terrorist Nuclear Event, 2009-08-19 A nuclear attack on a large U S city by terrorists even with a low yield improvised nuclear device IND of 10 kilotons or less would cause a large number of deaths and severe injuries The large number of injured from the detonation and radioactive fallout that would follow would be overwhelming for local emergency response and health care systems to rescue and treat even assuming that these systems and their personnel were not themselves incapacitated by the event The United States has been struggling for some time to address and plan for the threat of nuclear terrorism and other weapons of mass destruction that terrorists might obtain and use The Department of Homeland Security recently contracted with the Institute of Medicine to hold a workshop summarized in this volume to assess medical preparedness for a nuclear detonation of up to 10 kilotons This book provides a candid and sobering look at our current state of preparedness for an IND and identifies several key areas in which we might begin to focus our national efforts in a way that will improve the overall level of preparedness
