Making the News Amber E. Boydstun, 2013-08-26 Media attention can play a profound role in whether or not officials act on a policy issue but how policy issues make the news in the first place has remained a puzzle Why do some issues go viral and then just as quickly fall off the radar How is it that the media can sustain public interest for months in a complex story like negotiations over Obamacare while ignoring other important issues in favor of stories on balloon boy With Making the News Amber Boydstun offers an eye opening look at the explosive patterns of media attention that determine which issues are brought before the public At the heart of her argument is the observation that the media have two modes an alarm mode for breaking stories and a patrol mode for covering them in greater depth While institutional incentives often initiate alarm mode around a story they also propel news outlets into the watchdog like patrol mode around its policy implications until the next big news item breaks What results from this pattern of fixation followed by rapid change is skewed coverage of policy issues with a few receiving the majority of media attention while others receive none at all Boydstun documents this systemic explosiveness and skew through analysis of media coverage across policy issues including in depth looks at the waxing and waning of coverage around two issues capital punishment and the war on terror Making the News shows how the seemingly unpredictable day to day decisions of the newsroom produce distinct patterns of operation with implications good and bad for national politics

How to Change the World Jo Owen, 2025-05-22 Take your dream read this and let it fly JO YOULE OBE CEO of Missing People The world can be a challenging place It is often tempting to say why doesn't someone do something about it But why shouldn't that someone be you You don't have to be rich powerful or a genius to make a profound and lasting difference to our world All you need is an idea and the determination to make it happen How to Change the World is the springboard to help you impact the world in the way you've always wanted From finding the money to identifying the best people with whom to join forces Jo Owen will help you launch develop and scale an idea so that it has the most effective and meaningful social impact and benefits as many people as possible Your idea can come from anywhere from reading an article talking to colleagues or stumbling across a good idea that can be developed Jo Owen champions that anyone can turn an idea into something that can have a meaningful and lasting impact on people's lives and can perform the miracle of creating something great out of nothing
