Techniques in Biocompatibility Testing Williams,1986-07     Ultrastructure of Skeletal Tissues E. Bonucci, P. Motta,2012-12-06 The calcified tissues have fundamental functions in the biology of organisms not only because their strength, solidity and elasticity permit movement and mechanical activities and protect soft tissues against traumatic forces but also on account of their role in mineral homeostasis For this reason extensive investigation in the last 30 years has provided much to explain the complex chemical and physical processes occurring in cells and matrices composing the skeleton and their alterations in pathological conditions The use of ultrastructural methods such as immunocytochemistry, scanning and transmission electron microscopy, cytoautoradiography, freeze fracture, etching, high voltage etc has proven to be of great value when applied to cells and matrix components of bone and cartilage in spite of the technical difficulties due to the hardness of these tissues However available information on this subject is disseminated in a variety of scientific and medical articles This volume is an attempt to collect together the most significant data on the ultrastructure of cartilage and bone in normalcy and pathology Obviously it cannot be a complete report of all these data its principal aim being that of a
