Medical Outcasts Roxane Richter, 2015-12-24 As witnessed through the firsthand experiences of a frontline activist and international medical aid practitioner this biosocial political study gives voice to the inequities in undocumented Mexican and Zimbabwean women's emergency healthcare access and treatment in Houston United States of America and Johannesburg South Africa As a construct of feminist transdisciplinary fieldwork this research utilizes methodological pluralism and biosocial disparities to examine constructs of social determinants or social origins of women's suffering disease and healthcare access These variables include gender inequity xenophobia structural violence political economy subjugation healthcare access and delivery disparities and human rights violations Illustrated through 24 purposive interviews this seven year study shows Zimbabwean women sought out emergency care at a rate 16 times higher than their Mexican counterparts but reported lower instances of domestic violence and depression Most notably the Zimbabwean women reported communicable diseases at double the rate of the interviewed Latinas However the most surprising finding of the study was the high number of Mexican women some 60% who cited depression as one of their indications for seeking emergency healthcare The study indicated that the reality of many forced migrants experiences in claiming their accorded healthcare rights was more theoretical than practical in its distribution and disposition Particularly sovereign freedom and civil justice were not being conferred to these women according to the two host country's mandated Constitutional precepts and or emergency medical aid mandates and social gender aid and human rights justice directives Thus the role of government in shaping these systemic and institutionalized ideologies will be examined as well as paradigms that effect national healthcare expenditures subsidies and public health risks The intention of this study is not to provide definitive recommendations of specific forced migration policies that have a civic and or partisan duty to be executed but rather to serve as an illustration of how these social tenets inequitable power relations and political economy subjugation directly impact socioeconomically disadvantaged women's health livelihood and human rights

Witchcraft as a Social Diagnosis Roxane Richter,Thomas Flowers,Elias Bongmba,2017-02-27 This interdisciplinary manuscript examines one nonprofit s five years of medical outreach in the condemned witches village of Gnani in Ghana focusing on the clashes between traditional Ghanaian beliefs African religious tenets and contemporary Western medical science The research draws upon 1 714 patient interventions and 95 personal interviews exposing the inherent challenges of separating indigenous beliefs surrounding fate and witchcraft convictions from contemporary interpretations of biological pathogens structural and gender based violence and evidence based medicine This book offers a novel perspective on witchcraft as it examines questions of stigmatization in order to extrapolate how disease injury and illness relate to social condition and the dialogue surrounding witchcraft These unprecedented insights will serve to uncover and explore rural Ghanaian challenges in gender based violence religion legal and political tenets human rights and medical science and their many implications for those in search of health parity social justice gender equity and human rights

Mistrust Florian Mühlfried,2018-01-27 Scholars have long seen trust as a foundational social good We therefore have ample studies on building trust in free markets on cultivating trust in the state and on rebuilding trust through civil society The contributors to this volume instead take a step back They ask Can mistrust ever be more than the flip side of trust more than the sign of an absence or failure By looking ethnographically at what a variety of actors actually do when they express mistrust this volume offers a richly empirical trove of the social life of mistrust across a range of settings
