The Classroom and the Crowd Al Filreis, 2025-11-25 For more than a decade Al Filreis has taught a free online course about experimental poetry known as ModPo that has drawn some 435 000 students from 179 countries Online classes even a fraction of ModPo s size have been criticized as impersonal and unengaging But the citizens of ModPo have formed a generous and enduring intellectual community as together they read poems typically dismissed as difficult and inaccessible In The Classroom and the Crowd Filreis reflects on his decades of experience as a founder of participatory literary communities and teacher of online courses demonstrating that student centered education offers new possibilities for humane social networking Introducing readers to ModPo participants and their open ended round the clock conversations he shows how online learning can not only be accessible and educational but also deepen our commitment to democracy Filreis argues that the emphasis on collaborative learning space for discussion and the inherent openness of poetry allows for a sense of community continuity and even intimacy that often eludes other online educational endeavors ModPo embodies principles underlying both modern poetics and cooperative education Writers and readers like teachers and learners create meaning together many voices are clearer than one and democracy is a creative practice Proposing an optimistic vision of mass learning this book contends that asynchronous education has surprising advantages over the traditional classroom that panics about a crisis of attention and the death of reading are overblown and that instead of logging off we should all start reading with a crowd

Kuh,2011-05-02 American colleges and universities simultaneously face large numbers of faculty retirements and expanding enrollments Budget constraints have led colleges and universities to substitute part time and full time non tenure track faculty for tenure track faculty and the demand for faculty members will likely be high in the decade ahead This heightened demand is coming at a time when the share of American college graduates who go on for PhD study is far below its historic high The declining interest of American students in doctoral programs is due to many factors including long completion times low completion rates the high cost of doctoral education and the decline in the share of faculty positions that are tenured or on the tenure track In short doctoral education is in crisis because the impediments are many and the rewards are few students often choose instead to enroll in professional programs that result in more marketable credentials In Doctoral Education and the Faculty of the Future scientists social scientists academic administrators and policy makers describe their efforts to increase and improve the supply of future faculty They cover topics ranging from increasing undergraduate interest in doctoral study to improving the doctoral experience and the participation of underrepresented groups in doctoral education
