tool and archive online resources Delivering Digital Services David McMenemy, Alan Poulter, 2005 Lifelong learning is currently a major concern of governments who wish to see their citizens remain employable while the job market changes. Critical to this are digital learning centres where learning is delivered through internet access or via CD based packages. Access to these turns public libraries and community networks into multi media neighbourhood superstores where print based learning materials are enhanced by multimedia. The multiplicity of sources of learning materials and experiences reinforces and extends the traditional role of the librarian as mediator between the user and their needs. To support and foster these activities frontline public library and community network staff must be capable of offering user support and advice in a much wider arena. This requires training in new knowledge and skill sets. This timely new book offers practical guidance and expertise for public library and community network staff in setting up running and developing an effective digital learning centre based within the People's Network or in a related community networking initiative. It has a holistic focus on the use of ICT taking staff beyond user training applications into areas of network management e learning digitization web design and XML that staff face on a day to day basis. Key areas covered include PC installation and maintenance managing a network and coping with the security issues of internet connection understanding and supporting lifelong learning digitization of local materials managing websites and intranets site design metadata XML building local community portals implementing e government social inclusion and service extension assistive technologies service issues copyright access user and staff training. Readership: This book will demystify this new area of development for all library and information staff working in or setting up a PC based digital learning centre in information service settings within public libraries community networking centres and school and academic libraries.

Libraries Without Walls 7 Peter Brophy, Jenny Craven, Margaret Markland, 2008 This edited collection is drawn from the seventh Libraries Without Walls Conference held in 2007. From their beginnings in 1995 the Libraries Without Walls conferences have mapped a major change in the practice of librarianship. While library services are still concerned to provide users with physical access to their buildings electronic access often from remote locations is becoming ever more dominant. Library services are being integrated into virtual learning research and personal environments. In 2007 CERLIM wished to encourage the widest possible range of papers to reflect the diverse current developments in library service delivery. These covered New kinds of service especially those that open up new paradigms of library perhaps the library equivalent of YouTube or MySpace. The library's role within new models of scholarly publishing including experience of developing services based on institutional or other repositories and the responsibility of the library for digital curation. Service delivery in challenging environments especially where the infrastructure may be sub optimal as in some developing countries or where the user group represents particular challenges. New technological solutions and the impact on users of the improved services they make possible. Delivery and assessment of information skills literacies especially where this is achieved through electronic environments. These state of the art papers
