All members are a founding member of several bands including Machine Head, Thrashment, and Hellyeah. Hard Industries, in some form or fashion, have recorded or released everything from the 10 or so Tinch singles that were distributed out by Germany's Dark Reign Records, to the full-length record, 'Falling Skies', released on the German label, Pure Steel Records. History Led by the imposing bassist and producer Frank "Frank7" Hedlack, Hard Industries' debut full-length release, 'Falling Skies', features the record's namesake, as well as original Art Bell artwork, a large photo likeness of lead vocalist "Black" B-Side Crusty. The band's label debut, 'Falling Skies', turned out to be a concept album, dealing with themes of war, religion, and a hero being reduced to a shell of himself, surrounded by the destruction of war and the guilt of killing innocent people. The first single, from this record, called 'Bomb' produced in conjunction with Dan Weller of Machine Head, featured B-Side Black Label, a track he wrote specifically for the release. The track was engineered at Frank's home studio by Frank7 himself, as well as fellow Machine Head members, Dave [Memkheir] and Robb Flynn. In 2006, the band released the EP 'Circle of Death', and in July 2007, the band released another EP, titled 'Best of EP', as well as the 'Flying High', a split EP with fellow German label, Pure Steel Records. On November 3, 2008, the band released a 5-track EP entitled 'Hard Times'. This was the band's first release on Sanctuary Records, a label that makes full-length releases out of Darkthrone and Hellyeah, among others. This release features the song 'Scars', which was written by Frank7, written while he was touring with Hellyeah, as well as Frank7, Robb Flynn and bassist Kevin Talley. In April
