Parental Priorities And Economic Inequality:

Parental Priorities and Economic Inequality Casey B. Mulligan, 1997 Focuses on intergenerational mobility and intergenerational transmission of inequality    Parental Education and Children's Schooling Outcomes Damien de Walque, 2005 Educated parents tend to have educated children But is intergenerational transmission of human capital more nature more nurture or both De Walque uses household survey data from Rwanda that contains a large proportion of children living in households without their biological parents The data allows him to separate genetic from environmental parental influences The nonrandom placement of children is controlled by including the educational attainment of the absent biological parents and the type of relationship that links the children to their adoptive families The results of the analysis suggest that the nurture component of the intergenerational transmission of human capital is important for both parents contrary to recent evidence proposed by Behrman and Rosenzweig 2002 and Plug 2004 The author concludes that mothers education had no environmental impact on children's schooling Interestingly mothers education matters more for girls while fathers education is more important for boys Finally an important policy recommendation in the African context emerges from the analysis the risk for orphans or abandoned children to lose ground in their schooling achievements is minimized if they are placed with relatives Abstract

Using Data to Improve Higher Education Maria Eliophotou Menon, Dawn Geronimo Terkla, Paul Gibbs, 2014-11-26 In recent decades higher education systems and institutions have been called to respond to an unprecedented number of challenges Major challenges    The Turkish Economy Sumru G. Altug, Alpay Filiztekin, 2006-04-18 Including contributions from noted international scholars this collection of papers provides a strong theoretical and empirical underpinning for the discussion of major public policy issues facing Turkey today Matters addressed include determinants of growth and productivity education and human capital accumulation income inequality corporate control and government performance of the government sector impact of major public policy issues on the future growth prospects of the Turkish economy This volume relates the impact of major public policy issues on the future growth prospects of the Turkish economy At a time when Turkey is currently attempting to gain membership to the European Union this pertinent reference questions whether the country's economy is in fact ready for EU accession and membership

The Effect of Parents' Employment on Children's Educational Attainment John Ermisch, Marco Francesconi, 2000 This paper presents the conditions under which a causal interpretation can be given to the association between childhood parental employment and subsequent education of children In a model in which parental preferences are separable in own consumption and children's wellbeing estimation is complicated by endowment heterogeneity and by the fact that parents may compensate or reinforce children's endowments relevant to educational attainment A sibling difference estimation strategy is generally not sufficient to provide a consistent estimate of the parameter of interest Identification rests on two stronger assumptions about the timing of parents' knowledge of their children's endowments and about the technology used to produce children's human capital. We find a negative and significant effect on the child's educational attainment of the extent of mother's full time employment when the child was aged 0-5. The effects of mother's part time employment and father's employment are smaller and less well determined but again negative. In the context of our conditional demand function framework these results suggest that a higher full family income increases the educational attainment of children and given full family income a higher mother's or father's wage reduces their children's educational attainment.

Inequality and Tax Policy Kevin A. Hassett, 2001 Top economists provide much needed guidance and some surprising conclusions in response to rising public concerns about inequality in the U.S. tax system. Intergenerational Links Maria Cristina De Nardi, 2002 Southern Economic Journal, 1998 Journal of Economic Psychology, 2002 The American Economic Review, 2004 Three Essays on Social Interactions and

Intergenerational Mobility Alejandro Gaviria Trujillo, 1998 The Chicago School Johan Van Overtveldt, 2009-03-01 This admirably detailed and thoroughly welcome history provides a fascinating examination of a pivotal moment in the evolution of economic theory. The Economist When Richard Nixon said We are all Keynesians now in 1971 few could have predicted that the next three decades would result in a complete transformation of the global economic landscape. The transformation was led by a small relatively obscure group within the University of Chicago's business school and its departments of economics and political science. These thinkers including Milton Friedman Gary Becker George Stigler Robert Lucas and others revolutionized economic orthodoxy in the second half of the 20th century dominated the Nobel Prizes awarded in economics and changed how business is done around the world. Written by a leading European economic thinker The Chicago School is the first in depth look at how this remarkable group came together. Exhaustively detailed it provides a close recounting of the decade by decade progress of the Chicago School's evolution. As such it's an essential contribution to the intellectual history of our time. Intergenerational Schooling Mobility and Macro Conditions and Schooling

Policies in Latin America Jere R. Behrman, Nancy Birdsall, Miguel Székely, 1998 Poverty and Income Distribution Edward N. Wolff, 2009 Poverty and Income Distribution 2E Written by a leading scholar in the field this textbook provides a thorough introduction to the topic of income distribution and poverty with additional emphasis on the issues of inequality and discrimination. This book features an empirical focus and includes sections on basic statistics as well as optional econometric studies and more advanced mathematical handling of inequality measurement. Utilizing data from various countries around the globe including the US and Europe this textbook is international in its scope and provides a comparative element that will aid students in their studies. Up to date and comprehensive in its coverage this new edition supplies a self contained course on income distribution and poverty. Essays on the Intergenerational Transmission of Obesity and Human Capital Timothy Jon Classen, 2006 Quantitative Macroeconomics with Heterogeneous Households Jonathan Heathcote, Kjetil

Storesletten, Giovanni L. Violante, 2009 Macroeconomics is evolving from the study of aggregate dynamics to the study of the dynamics of the entire equilibrium distribution of allocations across individual economic actors. This article reviews the quantitative macroeconomic literature that focuses on household heterogeneity with a special emphasis on the standard incomplete markets model. We organize the vast literature according to three themes that are central to understanding how inequality matters for macroeconomics. First, what are the most important sources of individual risk and cross sectional heterogeneity? Second, what are individuals key channels of insurance? Third, how does idiosyncratic risk interact with aggregate risk?

It Runs in the Family Eva Österbacka, 2004     Cycles of Disadvantage? Scott Boggess, Mary Corcoran, Stephen P. Jenkins, 1999. Reviews US evidence on cycles of disadvantage or the question of how and to what extent economic and other background disadvantages are passed on to children by their parents.

Contents Paper One Cycles of disadvantage 1 Introduction 2 Trends in income, income inequality and poverty: time trends 3 Childhood poverty trends and duration trends in child poverty 4 Early arguments about intergenerational poverty and inequality 5 Estimates of intragenerational and intergenerational persistence of economic status based on panel data
