

Digital at the Forefront of Emotional Engagement

Digital technologies enable organizations to decode consumer behavior through emotion analytics, wherein organizations use voice, video, neuroscience, and wearables to understand consumer emotions. The global emotion analytics market is estimated to grow at a CAGR of 82.9% to 2022.¹⁴

For example, Humana, an American health insurance company, uses artificial intelligence to analyze the tone of the consumer and help customer support agents interact effectively. This enables the support agents to understand subtle cues in the conversation.¹⁵

Walmart uses video cameras at checkout counters to identify unhappy consumers through facial analytics. Walmart also plans to link the facial expressions to consumer spend patterns to gain a better understanding of their consumers.¹⁶

Japanese clothing brand Uniqlo uses neuroscience to detect consumer emotions. Consumers' brain activity is measured through a sensor in a headset as they watch short videos. Uniqlo maps metrics—such as concentration, stress and drowsiness—through the sensors, and tries to match a style based on user mood.¹⁷

Muggins, a disposable diaper brand, developed a pregnancy belt for dads to feel and share in their unborn baby's movement. The expectant mother wears a belt with electronic sensors that detect baby movements and signals are transmitted to the belt worn by their partner.¹⁸

What is the level of emotional engagement within retail subsectors?

We took a deeper look at the retail industry and examined the emotional engagement of consumers across a number of retail subsectors, including grocery, home furnishings, apparel, electronics, and e-tailing (i.e., retailers that sell exclusively online).

As Figure 12 shows, over half (58%) of consumers associate high emotional engagement with grocery.

Nearly half (48%) of consumers are emotionally connected even when shopping online, which is often thought of as a shopping experience with a less human characteristic. Fewer consumers (37%) associate high emotional engagement with home furnishings and electronics.

Emotions Gerben A. van Kleef, Arik Cheshin, Agneta H. Fischer, Iris K. Schneider, 2016-08-11 Emotion is a defining aspect of the human condition Emotions pervade our social and professional lives they affect our thinking and behavior and they profoundly shape our relationships and social interactions Emotions have traditionally been conceptualized and studied as individual phenomena with research focusing on cognitive and expressive components and on physiological and neurological processes underlying emotional reactions Over the last two decades however an increasing scholarly awareness has emerged that emotions are inherently social that is they tend to be elicited by other people expressed at other people and regulated to influence other people or to comply with social norms Fischer Keltner Parkinson 1996 Van Kleef 2009 Despite this increasing awareness the inclusion of the social dimension as a fundamental element in emotion research is still in its infancy Fischer Doosje Branscombe Spears Fischer Hess Mesquita Tiedens 2001 The third set of questions has to do with the ways in which people respond to the emotional expressions of others and how such responses are shaped by the social context Studies have shown that emotional expressions can influence the behavior of others for instance in group settings Barsade 2002 Cheshin Rafaeli Heerdink Van Kleef Homan Van Kleef De Dreu Van Kleef Homan Beersma Van Knippenberg 2010 This Research Topic centers around these and related questions regarding the social nature of emotions thereby highlighting new research opportunities and guiding future directions in the field We bring together a collection of papers to provide an encyclopedic open access snapshot of the current state of the art of theorizing and research on the social nature of emotion The state of the art work that is presented in this e book helps advance the understanding of the social nature of emotions It brings together the latest cutting edge findings and thoughts on this central topic in emotion science as it heads toward the next frontier Emotional Transitions in Contemporary Afrodiasporic Women's Writing Ángela

Suárez-Rodríguez, 2023-12-15 This book is an in depth study of the category stranger as represented in four contemporary Afrodiasporic novels of female authorship Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie's Americanah Sefi Atta's A Bit of Difference NoViolet Bulawayo's We Need New Names and Imbolo Mbue's Behold the Dreamers Examined from an interdisciplinary perspective that brings together different approaches to the figure of the stranger and Affect Theory the plurality of experiences of estrangement disorientation and unbelonging portrayed in these texts allows expansion upon Sara Ahmed's investigation of stranger fetishism in her title Strange Encounters Embodied Others in Post coloniality 2000 and in so doing contributes to the recent call for a more nuanced understanding of the idea of stranger. In particular the critical and comparative study of the different migration experiences of the protagonists reveals that within the framework of the contemporary African diaspora to the West strangeness is a situated embodied and emotional condition that depends on the politics of location and of identity from which it emerges. This book will particularly appeal to scholars and students in the fields of Postcolonial Studies African Diaspora Studies and Black Women's Literature and will also be suitable for students at graduate and advanced undergraduate levels in English Studies.

States and Societies in Motion Boo Teik Khoo, Jafar Suryomenggolo, 2021. With contributions from leading scholars in their field this collection of fourteen essays offers wide ranging but incisive perspectives on East and Southeast Asian Studies. Apart from informing and enlightening the reader the essays offer a tribute to Professor Takashi Shiraishi the renowned Japanese scholar for his many contributions across continents and disciplines as well as his personal qualities as a long time colleague teacher and friend. Now Professor Emeritus of the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies GRIPS in Tokyo Shiraishi sensei has had an outstanding career as a teacher scholar administrator and policy advisor his many roles including Director of the Southeast Asia Program at Cornell University and president both of GRIPS and the Institute of Developing Economies Japan. Often with Japan at their nexus the essays speak to three enduring themes in the research interests that spanned Shiraishi's half century career namely political movements in Southeast Asia national and regional politics in China and Japan and the links between ideology networks and policies at critical junctures of state formation. An introduction by the editors reviews Shiraishi's contributions to many areas of scholarship these are documented in the back matter in a bibliography of his publications and writings in English and Japanese. Among authors of the fourteen essays that follow are Patricio Abinales Chris Baker Caroline Hau Peter Katzenstein Pasuk Phongpaichit and Thongchai Winichakul. In a concluding lengthy interview Shiraishi speaks for the first time in a frank if light hearted tone of his diverse experiences in academia as student faculty and administrator his thoughts on area studies and their connections with official policy making and his initiatives for building regional networks of research and intellectual exchange. A festschrift in English being a rarity for a Japanese scholar this collection offers valuable if indirect insights into the links and influences that have animated a burgeoning community of international academic exchange and expert cooperation. This has been facilitated by
