Profession by George Bernard Shaw
Mrs Warren's Profession is a play written by George Bernard Shaw in 1893 and first performed in London in 1902. The title refers to prostitution. The story centres on the relationship between Mrs Kitty Warren and her daughter Vivie. Mrs Warren, a former prostitute and current brothel owner, is described as on the whole a genial and fairly presentable old blackguard of a woman. Vivie, an intelligent and pragmatic young woman who has just graduated from university, has come home to get acquainted with her mother for the first time in her life. The play focuses on how their relationship changes when Vivie learns what her mother does for a living. It explains why Mrs Warren became a prostitute, condemns the hypocrisies relating to prostitution, and criticises the limited employment opportunities available for women in Victorian Britain.

Mrs Warren's Profession Bernard Shaw, 2005-09-13

One of Bernard Shaw's early plays of social protest, Mrs Warren's Profession places the protagonist's decision to become a prostitute in the context of the appalling conditions for working class women in Victorian England. Faced with ill health, poverty, and marital servitude on the one hand, and opportunities for financial independence, dignity, and self-worth on the other, Kitty Warren follows her sister into a successful career in prostitution. Shaw's fierce social criticism in this play is driven not by conventional morality but by anger at the hypocrisy that allows society to condemn prostitution while condoning the discrimination against women that makes prostitution inevitable. This Broadview edition includes a comprehensive historical and critical introduction, extracts from Shaw's prefaces to the play, Shaw's expurgations of the text, early reviews of the play in the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, and contemporary contextual documents on prostitution, incest, censorship, women's education, and the New Woman.
