Progress in Smart Materials and Structures Peter L. Reece,2007 Smart materials respond to environmental stimuli with particular changes in some variables For that reason they are often also called responsive materials Depending on changes in some external conditions smart materials change either their properties mechanical electrical appearance their structure or composition or their functions Mostly smart materials are embedded in systems whose inherent properties can be favourably changed to meet performance needs Smart materials and structures have widespread applications in 1 Materials science composites ceramics processing science interface science sensor actuator materials chiral materials conducting and chiral polymers electrochromic materials liquid crystals molecular level smart materials biomaterials 2 Sensing and actuation electromagnetic acoustic chemical and mechanical sensing and actuation single measurand sensors multiplexed multimeasurand distributed sensors and actuators sensor actuator signal processing compatibility of sensors and actuators with conventional and advanced materials smart sensors for materials and composites processing 3 Optics and electromagnetics optical fibre technology active and adaptive optical systems and components tuneable high dielectric phase shifters tuneable surface control 4 Structures smart skins for drag and turbulence control other applications in aerospace hydrospace structures civil infrastructures transportation vehicles manufacturing equipment repairability and maintainability 5 Control structural acoustic control distributed control analogue and digital feedback control real time implementation adaptive structure stability damage implications for structural control 6 Information processing neural networks data processing data visualisation and reliability This book presents leading research from around the globe in this field

Damage Growth in Aerospace Composites Aniello Riccio,2015-01-07 This book presents novel methods for the simulation of damage evolution in aerospace composites that will assist in predicting damage onset and growth and thus foster less conservative designs which realize the promised economic benefits of composite materials The presented integrated numerical experimental methodologies are capable of taking into account the presence of damage and its evolution in composite structures from the early phases of the design conceptual design through to the detailed finite element method analysis and verification phase The book is based on the GARTEUR Research Project AG 32 which ran from 2007 to 2012 and documents the main results of that project In addition the state of the art in European projects on damage evolution in composites is reviewed While the high specific strength and stiffness of composite materials make them suitable for aerospace structures their sensitivity to damage means that designing with composites is a challenging task The new approaches described here will prove invaluable in meeting that challenge 20th ISPE International Conference on Concurrent Engineering C. Bil,J. Mo,J. Stjepandić,2013-09-12 As a concept Concurrent Engineering CE initiates processes with the goal of improving product quality production efficiency and overall customer satisfaction Services are becoming increasingly important to the economy with more than 60% of the GDP in Japan the USA Germany and Russia deriving from service based activities The definition of a product has evolved from the manufacturing and supplying of goods only to providing goods with added value to eventually promoting a complete service business solution with support from introduction into service and from operations to decommissioning This book presents the proceedings of the 20th ISPE International Conference on Concurrent Engineering held in Melbourne Australia in September 2013 The conference had as its theme Product and Service Engineering in a Dynamic World and the papers explore research results new concepts and insights covering a number of topics including service engineering cloud computing and digital manufacturing knowledge based engineering and sustainability in concurrent engineering High Performance Structures and Materials II C.
