SYNER-G: Typology Definition and Fragility Functions for Physical Elements at Seismic Risk K. Pitilakis, H. Crowley, A.M. Kaynia, 2014-01-20 Fragility functions constitute an emerging tool for the probabilistic seismic risk assessment of buildings, infrastructures and lifeline systems. The work presented in this book is a partial product of a European Union funded research project SYNER-G FP7 Theme 6 Environment where existing knowledge has been reviewed in order to extract the most appropriate fragility functions for the vulnerability analysis and loss estimation of the majority of structures and civil works exposed to earthquake hazard Results of other relevant European projects and international initiatives are also incorporated in the book In several cases new fragility and vulnerability functions have been developed in order to better represent the specific characteristics of European elements at risk Several European and non European institutes and Universities collaborated efficiently to capitalize upon existing knowledge State of the art methods are described existing fragility curves are reviewed and where necessary new ones are proposed for buildings lifelines transportation infrastructures as well as for utilities and critical facilities Taxonomy and typology definitions are synthesized and the treatment of related uncertainties is discussed A fragility function manager tool and fragility functions in electronic form are provided on extras springer com Audience The book aims to be a standard reference on the fragility functions to be used for the seismic vulnerability and probabilistic risk assessment of the most important elements at risk It is of particular interest to earthquake engineers scientists and researchers working in the field of earthquake risk assessment as well as the insurance industry civil protection and emergency management agencies Japan Report ,1977 Jetties and Wharfs

CROW,2021-09-29 For centuries jetties and wharfs have been designed and built around the world and play an important role in contemporary ports The difference in the use of jetties piers and wharfs is that jetties are frequently used for the transshipment and storage of light materials and ro ro traffic while piers are generally used for heavy loads like iron ore That is why piers are mostly designed and constructed like quay walls which are beyond the scope of this handbook The designs were originally based on trial and error and the insights of those who dared to conquer local conditions such as wind waves currents and soil composition Design and construction techniques have since evolved into the designs we see on the coast or in river ports and seaports nowadays The purpose of this handbook is to provide insight and guidelines regarding aspects that are important in the design of jetties and wharfs Jetty specific issues such as loads interfaces between materials installations on jetties and wharfs as well as detailing aspects are also covered This handbook is part of a series of Dutch port infrastructure design recommendations that include the Quay Walls handbook and Flexible Dolphins handbook An Introduction to the Deep Soil Mixing Methods as Used in Geotechnical Applications Donald A. Bruce,2000 The Deep Mixing Method DMM is an in situ soil treatment technology whereby the soil is blended with cementitious and or other materials This report first traces the historical development of the various proprietary DMM methods and provides a structured summary of applications It also compares the applicability of DMM with other competitive forms of ground treatment and improvement The bulk of the report constitutes a description of the individual methods focusing on the equipment the procedures and the properties of the treated soil The report continues by describing the nature of the market in North America Japan and Scandinavia while observations are also made on the various potential barriers to further growth in the United States This report incorporates some factual data from an earlier Federal Highway Administration draft report 1996
