company Crossing Cultures Judith Oster,2003 In this important new study Judith Oster looks at the literature of Chinese Americans and Jewish Americans in relation to each other Examining what is most at issue for both groups as they live between two cultures languages and environments Oster focuses on the struggles of protagonists to form identities that are necessarily bicultural and always in process Recognizing what poststructuralism has demonstrated regarding the instability of the subject and the impossibility of a unitary identity Oster contends that the writers of these works are attempting to shore up the fragments to construct through their texts some sort of wholeness and to answer at least partially the questions Who am I and Where do I belong Book Jacket Exploring Text, Media, and Memory Patrizia Lombardo,Lars SAetre,Lars S'tre,Sara Tanderup Linkis,2018-12-31 Exploring Text Media and Memory investigates the link between memory and media by asking a series of questions pertinent to our time How do individual and collective memories blend How do traumatic experiences from past events and catastrophic projections of the future reveal the human condition in the epoch of frenetic technological reproduction of works of art How is the human body tied to narrations and why A group of international scholars tackle questions like these across art forms media and cultural history In nineteen essays they argue that modern and contemporary literary texts and visual arts show how photography film tape recording television and internet are not just means of storing memory and information but objects that we interact with every day challenging static visions of places and the linear notions of past present and future Writing and Desire Jonathan Alexander,2023-06-06 Writing and Desire is a sustained multimovement exploration of how writers particularly queer writers think and feel through desire as central to their writing practice In a time of political social global and ecological unrest how might we understand desire the desire for things to be different the desire for a better world as a crucial dimension of contemporary human experience What might such a recentering of desire offer us personally and politically And how is writing itself as one of the primary ways through which we express and explore ourselves central to the expression and exploration of desire Drawing on recent theoretical work in queer theory and the new materialism Jonathan Alexander studies a range of queer and trans writers and artists who center desire in their practice and argues that conceptualizing writing as desire allows us to reexperience both writing and our world as saturated with our dreams and wishes for change In a book both elegant and unsettling and by turns personal analytic and experimental Alexander challenges us and himself to think about desire and writing as the deepest manifestation of our hopes for the future Teaching Life Writing Texts Miriam Fuchs,Craig Howes,2008 The past thirty years have witnessed a rapid growth in the number and variety of courses and programs that study life writing from literary philosophical psychological and cultural perspectives The field has evolved from the traditional approach that biographies and autobiographies were always about prominent people historically significant persons the nobility celebrities writers to the conception of life writing as a genre of interrogation and revelation The texts now studied include memoirs testimonios diaries oral histories genealogies and group biographies and extend to resources in the visual and plastic arts in films and videos and on the Internet Today the tensions between canonical and emergent life writing texts between the famous and the formerly unrepresented are making the study of biography and autobiography a far more nuanced and multifarious activity This volume in the MLA series Options for Teaching builds on and complements earlier work on pedagogical issues in life writing studies Over forty contributors from a broad range of educational institutions describe courses for every level of postsecondary instruction Some writers draw heavily on literary and cultural theory others share their assignments and weekly syllabi Many essays grapple with texts that represent disability illness abuse and depression ethnic sexual and racial discrimination crises and catastrophes witnessing and testimonials human rights violations and genocide The classes described are taught in humanities cultural studies social science and language departments and are located in among other countries the United States Great Britain Canada Australia Germany Eritrea and South Africa

,2004 Configuring Memory in Czech Family Sagas Marcin Filipowicz,2021-11-09 Configuring Memory in Czech Family Sagas The Art of Forgetting in Generic Tradition explores how literature may configure family memory Family sagas can be viewed as a structure helping us to share our memories Special attention will be paid to crucial generic motifs within family sagas as well as to elements of the narrative structure which hold powerful memory forming potential The book proves that this potential can be fulfilled in two ways The genre under analysis tends to strengthen the bad family memory and consider it as a burden and to encourage one to forget their family past Despite the prevalence of the saga as a cultural form right across mass media the literary genre of the family saga has not attracted intensive critical acclaim Readers of this book will not only learn more about the genre of family saga but also be encouraged to reflect on their own family memories The Burden of Remembering Ene Kõresaar,E. Lauk,K. Kuutma,2009 This is a book that focuses on two major turning points in the 20th century history that determine the formation of that century as a realm of memory the Second World War and the collapse of Communist regimes and ideology in Europe These two events are revisited from the point of view of transdisciplinary memory studies to demonstrate the interplay of continuance and discontinuance of political and cultural regimes of memory of these ruptures as well as their interconnections in present day discourses and practices of remembering and forgetting The memory practices and models of the Second World War are comparatively interrelated with the practices of remembering and interpreting the realities of the period after the fall of Communism in Europe
