Migration and Organized Civil Society Dirk Halm, Zeynep Sezgin, 2013-05-07 Migrant organizations are of vital importance for countries of residence and countries of origin but the empirical and theoretical knowledge of the cross border character of migrant organizations remains incomplete It is clear that migrant transnationalism challenges the governance of nation states on the local and national levels This book the outcome of an ECPR joint session systematically and empirically analyzes the differing roles that transnational migrant organizations play in their countries of residence and origin Drawing on research conducted in Belgium England Germany Holland Poland and Portugal it focuses on the relations between migrant organizations and the state Offering an opportunity for comparative analysis it also examines why migrants and their organizations engage in different forms of border crossing activities and how various political systems influence and are influenced by these forms of engagement Migration and Organized Civil Society will be of strong interest to students and researchers of political science political sociology migration studies transnationalism and Diaspora studies

The Human Face of Global Mobility Michael Peter Smith, Adrian Favell, Alongside flows of trade and capital the free movement of professionals technical personnel and students is seen as a key aspect of globalization Yet not much detailed empirical research has been completed about the trajectories and experiences of these highly skilled or highly educated international migrants What little is known about these forms of global mobility and the politics that surround them contrasts with the abundant theories and accounts of other types of international migration such as low income economic migration from less developed to core countries in the international political economy Drawing on the work of a long standing discussion group at the Center for Comparative and Global Research of UCLA s International Institute this collection bridges conventional methodological divides bringing together political scientists sociologists demographers and ethnographers It explores the reality behind assumptions about these new global migration trends It challenges widely held views about the elite characteristics of these migrants the costs and consequences of the brain drain said to follow from the migration of skilled workers the determinants of national policies on high skilled migrants and the presumed effortlessness of professional mobility in an integrating world The volume also sheds new light on international student migration the politics of temporary non immigrant workers in the United States new international forms of regulating movement and the realities of the everyday lives of multinational employees in the world s transnational cities Key differences between the regional contexts of this migration in Europe North America and the Asia Pacific are also emphasized Michael Peter Smith is professor of community studies at the University of California Davis He has published extensively on urban theory globalization and transnationalism including Transnationalism from Below and City and Nation both available through Transaction and Transnational Urbanism Adrian Favell is associate professor of sociology at UCLA He is the author of Philosophies of Integration and has published widely on migration in Europe citizenship the integration of immigrants and on social theory

Indigeneity in Real Time Ingrid Kummels, 2023-03-17 Long before the COVID 19 crisis Mexican Indigenous peoples were faced with organizing their lives from afar between villages in the Oaxacan Sierra Norte and the urban districts of Los Angeles as a result of unauthorized migration and the restrictive border between Mexico and the United States By launching cutting edge Internet radio stations and multimedia platforms and engaging as community influencers Zapotec and Ayuujk peoples paved their own paths to a transnational lifeway during the Trump era This meant adapting digital technology to their needs setting up their own infrastructure and designing new digital formats for re organizing community life in all its facets including illness death and mourning collective celebrations sport tournaments and political meetings across vast distances Author Ingrid Kummels shows how mediamakers and users in the Sierra Norte villages and in Los Angeles created a transborder media space and aligned time regimes By networking from multiple places they put into practice a communal way of life called Comunalidad and an indigenized American Dream in real time EBOOK: LABOR ECONOMICS

Transnational Migration Thomas Faist, Margit Fauser, Eveline Reisenauer, 2013-04-03 Increasing interconnections between nation states across borders have rendered the transnational a key tool for understanding our world It has made particularly strong contributions to immigration studies and holds great promise for deepening insights into international migration This is the first book to provide an accessible yet rigorous overview of transnational migration as experienced by family and kinship groups networks of entrepreneurs diasporas and immigrant associations As well as defining the core concept it explores the implications of transnational migration for immigrant integration and its relationship to assimilation

By examining its political economic social and cultural dimensions the authors capture the distinctive features of the new immigrant communities that have reshaped the ethno cultural mix of receiving nations including the US and Western Europe. Importantly the book also examines the effects of transnationality on sending communities viewing migrants as agents of political and economic development. This systematic and critical overview of transnational migration perfectly balances theoretical discussion with relevant examples and cases making it an ideal book for upper level students covering immigration and transnational relations on sociology political science and globalization courses. New Transnational Social Spaces Ludger Pries, 2013-02-01. Recent terms such as globalisation virtual reality and cyberspace indicate that the traditional notion of the geographic and the social space is changing. New Transnational Social Spaces illustrates the contemporary relationship between the social and the spatial which has emerged with new communication and transportation technologies alongside the massive transnational movement of people. Transnational Ties John Eade, Michael Peter Smith, 2011-12-31. Cities are key sites of the transnational ties that increasingly connect people places and projects across the globe. They provide opportunities and constraints within which transnational actors and networks operate and nodes linking wider social formations traverse national borders. This book brings together a series of richly textured ethnographic studies that suggest new ways to situate and historicize transnationalism identify new pathways to transnational urbanism and map the contours of translocal interregional and diasporic connections not previously studied. The transnational ties treated in this book truly span the globe giving concrete meaning to the phrase globalization from below. How have the contributors to this book conceptualized the wider context informing the conduct of their ethnographically grounded multi sited research on the relationship between cities migration and transnationalism. Several interrelated contextual dimensions have been singled out as affecting the opportunities and constraints experienced by transnational migrant subjects. Socio spatially in several of these chapters the political economic context now called neoliberal globalization is shown to be a key driving force creating conditions that necessitate facilitate or impede migration foster trans local economic ties and create new inter regional interdependencies e g new South South and East East transnational ties. The changing historical context of both migrating groups and the cities and regions they move across are central to the study of the interplay of urban change and migrant transnationalism. The historical particularities of migrant recruitment migration histories migratory narratives and changing gender and class relations all affect the character and geography of transnational migration with an impact on the social structures of community formation. This is a pioneering effort in the Comparative Urban and Community Research series. Migrant Transnationalism Özge Bilgili, Marta Bivand Erdal, 2025-07-22. This open access short reader provides a compelling introduction to research on migrant transnationalism. The short reader focuses on the significant area of remittances in financial terms. However attention is also paid to political social cultural and religious transfers and exchanges underscoring the salience of the wide range of ties that are maintained.

across borders Increasingly such ties are sustained through virtual and technology facilitated modes of interaction Drawing on established and recent empirical research from across the globe in dialogue with scholars of migrant transnationalism the book offers an overview of approaches conceptual tools thematic areas and methods of investigation Thus this short reader sheds light on the fundamentals of existing knowledge on migrant transnationalism What are the key questions in migrant transnationalism research today How does a transnational perspective deepen our understanding of migration social mobility diversity inclusion and development As a source for researchers students and policy makers this short reader is essential reading which shows why looking at the world through a transnational lens adds value for anyone interested in migration and social change

Irregular Migration Bill Jordan, Franck Düvell, 2002 Provides a theoretical framework for the analysis of mobility and border crossing in an age of globalization Focuses on people working in the UK without proper immigration status the organizations that support immigrants and the responses of control agencies and public services

Onward Migration and Multi-Sited Transnationalism Jill Ahrens, Russell King, 2022-10-17 This open access book brings novel perspectives to the scholarship on transnational migration The book stresses the complexity of migration trajectories and proposes multi sited field studies to capture this complexity Its constituent chapters offer examples of onward migration spanning all major world regions The contents exemplify a range of interdisciplinary approaches including both qualitative and quantitative methodologies The result is an impressive remapping and reconceptualisation of global migration and mobility of interest to students and policy makers alike

Migration and Transformation: Pirkko Pitkänen, Ahmet İçduygu, Deniz Sert, 2012-04-14 People s transnational ties and activities are acquiring ever greater importance and topicality in today s world The focus of this book lies in the complex and multi level processes of migrant transnationalism in four transnational spaces India UK Morocco France and Turkey Germany and Estonia Finland The main question is how people s activities across national borders emerge function and change and how are they related to the processes of governance in increasingly complex and interconnected world The book is based on the findings of a three year research project TRANS NET which brought together internationally acknowledged experts from Europe Asia and Africa As no single discipline could investigate all the components of the topic in question the project adopted a multi disciplinary approach among the contributors there are sociologists policy analysts political scientists social and cultural anthropologists educational scientists and economists The chapters show that people s transnational linkages and migration across national boundaries entail manifold political economic social cultural and educational implications Although political social economic educational transformations fostered by migrant transnationalism constitute the main topic of the book the starting assumption is that the large scale institutional and actor centred patterns of transformation come about through a constellation of parallel processes

Transnational Families, Migration and the Circulation of Care Loretta Baldassar, Laura Merla, 2013-09-11 Without denying the difficulties that confront migrants and their distant kin this volume highlights the agency of family members in transnational processes of care in an effort to acknowledge the transnational family as an increasingly common family form and to question the predominantly negative conceptualisations of this type of family. It reconceptualises transnational care as a set of activities that circulates between home and host countries across generations and fluctuates over the life course going beyond a focus on mother-child relationships to include multidirectional exchanges across generations and between genders. It highlights in particular how the sense of belonging in transnational families is sustained by the reciprocal though uneven exchange of caregiving which binds members together in intergenerational networks of reciprocity and obligation, love and trust that are simultaneously fraught with tension, contest and relations of unequal power. The chapters that make up this volume cover a rich array of ethnographic case studies including analyses of transnational families who circulate care between developing nations in Africa, Latin America and Asia to wealthier nations in North America, Europe and Australia. There are also examples of intra and extra-European, Australian and North American migration which involve the mobility of both the unskilled and working class as well as the skilled middle and aspirational classes.

Return Migration of the Next Generations Dennis Conway, 2016-12-05

There is renewed interest in return migration among researchers of global movement patterns. Until recently it was overlooked, regarded as the result of failure by emigrants or related to the return of retired elderly migrants. This important study looks at the first and second generation migrants, the youthful contract workers and the prolonged sojourners and the consequences of their return to source communities.

Multiple State Membership and Citizenship in the Era of Transnational Migration Pirkko Pitkänen, Devorah Kalekin-Fishman, 2007

Once a rare phenomenon, multiple state membership and multinational citizenship has become almost commonplace with the rise in transnational mobility. This compilation analyses transnational participation focusing mainly on the interests of individual people and their transnational networks. The focus lies on the perceptions, attitudes, experiences and views on membership and participation of people with dual/multiple citizenship and individuals with multinational background who hold a single citizenship. Eight contributions present findings from the international research project 'Dual Citizenship: Governance and Education: A Challenge to the European Nation State' (DCE) conducted in 2002-2006 in Britain, France, Portugal, Germany, Finland, Greece, Estonia and Israel.

Work, Learning and Transnational Migration Shibao Guo, 2018-02-02

As the globalisation of migration intensifies, many countries have joined the international competition for the most talented, skilful and resourceful workers. More recently, migration has shifted from international to transnational, characterised by its multiple and circular flows across transnational spaces rather than singular or unidirectional movement. When transnational migrants arrive in a new country, many of them face multifaceted barriers when it comes to transitioning into work and learning in the host society. Work, Learning and Transnational Migration examines the non-linear transition of work and learning for transnational migrants, the multiple barriers facing migrants in the process of transition, tensions between mobility, knowledge and recognition, issues of language, power and transnational identity and how socio cultural differences have been used to entrench social inequality in migrants transition The rich international contexts and global perspectives provided across all chapters enrich our understanding about the changing nature of work and learning in the age of transnational migration This book was originally published as a special issue of Globalisation Societies and Education
