turn of the century the opportunity to design a city nestled in a subtropical garden has attracted the nation s preeminent planners to St Petersburg The most ambitious plan was developed in 1923 by John Nolen who believed that an interconnected system of preserves and parks would enhance the city s development and attract tourists for generations His initiative failed miserably at the polls however because it threatened the conflicting notion of paradise held by hundreds of investors who were profiting from the greatest real estate boom in the nation s history and feared that planning would curtail speculation As Stephenson points out a half century would pass until a series of ecological disasters in the 1970s finally
