Immune System Boost Comparison New:

Radiation-induced effects and the immune system Gabriele Multhoff, Alan G. Pockley, Udo S. Gaipf, Franz Rödel, Numerous developments in molecular biology have led to an explosive growth in the knowledge underlying mechanisms of carcinogenesis cell signalling tumor progression and development of metastasis However cure of cancer is still hampered by the inherited capacity of tumors to become resistant to standard therapies to metastasize from their initial location and to proliferate in other tissue compartments Radiotherapy is one of the main treatment modalities to achieve locoregional tumor control However the treatment of distant metastases further remains to be a challenge In this special topic we are interested to elucidate immunological aspects which are initiated and affected by radiotherapy We also aim to describe the development of innovative immunological strategies from a preclinical stage to clinical application which could be combined with standard radiotherapeutic approaches A special interest will also deal with the effects of radiotherapy on tumor initiating cells as well as on the tumor microenvironment Last but not least the effects of different irradiation sources and qualities such as photons protons and heavy ions will be analyzed with respect to immunological outcome

they did not develop immunity after full prime Moreover booster shots not only protect vaccinated individuals but they could also reduce the impact on lifestyle public health and economics This research topic aims to focus on the effect of COVID 19 booster shots and the evidence seen in animal models clinical trials real world evidence and systematic reviews
