Seeing Things Amanda Shubert, 2025-11-15 A cultural history of nineteenth century media imaginaries Seeing Things tells the story of how Victorians experienced the virtual images created by modern optical technologies magic lanterns stereoscopes phenakistoscopes museum displays and illusionistic stage magic Amanda Shubert argues that interactions with these devices gave rise to a new virtual aesthetics an understanding of visual and perceptual encounters with things that are not really there The popularization of Victorian optical media redefined visuality as a rational mode of spectatorship that taught audiences to distinguish illusion from reality As an aesthetic expression of a civilizational ideal that defined the capacity to see but not believe to be entertained without being deceived it became a sign of western supremacy By tracing the development of virtual aesthetics through nineteenth century writings from the novels of George Eliot and Charles Dickens to popular science writing and imperial travelogues Seeing Things recovers a formative period of technological and literary innovation to explain how optical media not only anticipated cinema but became a paradigmatic media aesthetic of western modernity

North, 2008 The camera supposedly never lies yet film's ability to frame cut and reconstruct all that passed before its lens made cinema the pre eminent medium of visual illusion and revelation from the early twentieth century onwards This volume examines film's creative history of special effects and trickery encompassing everything from George M. Li's first trick films to the modern CGI era Evaluating movements towards the use of computer generated synthespians in films such as Final Fantasy the Spirits Within 2001 this title suggests that cinematic effects should be understood not as attempts to perfectly mimic real life but as constructions of substitute realities situating them in the cultural lineage of the stage performers and illusionists and of the nineteenth century With analyses of films such as Destination Moon 1950 Spider Man 2002 and the King Kong films 1933 and 2006 this new volume provides an insight into cinema's capacity to perform illusions
