Passages from the French and Italian Notebooks, Complete Hawthorne Nathaniel, 2016-06-21 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy 320 320 320 320 (English Classics320 Passages from the English Notebooks, Complete by Nathaniel Hawthorne) (Nathaniel Hawthorne), 2021-12-07 It seems justly due to Mr Hawthorne that the occasion of any portion of his private journals being brought before the Public should be made known since they were originally designed for his own reference only Hawthorne There had been a constant and an urgent demand for a life or memoir of Mr Hawthorne yet from the extreme delicacy and difficulty of the subject the Editor felt obliged to refuse compliance with this demand Moreover Mr Hawthorne had frequently and emphatically expressed the hope that no one would attempt to write his Biography and the Editor perceived that it would be impossible for any person outside of his own domestic circle to succeed in doing it on account of his extreme reserve But it was ungracious to do nothing and therefore the Editor believing that Mr Hawthorne himself was alone capable of satisfactorily answering the affectionate call for some sketch of his life concluded to publish as much as possible of his private records and even extracts from his private letters in order to gratify the desire of his friends and of literary artists to become more intimately acquainted with him The Editor has been severely blamed and wondered at in some instances for allowing many things now published to see the light but it has been a matter both of conscience and courtesy to withhold nothing that could be given up Many of the journals were doubtless destroyed for the earliest date found in his American papers was that of 1835 1835 The Editor has transcribed the manuscripts just as they were left without making any new arrangement or altering any sequence merely omitting some passages and being especially careful to preserve whatever could throw any light upon his character To persons on a quest for characteristics however each of his books reveals a great many and it is believed that with the aid of the Notes both American and English the Tales and Romances will make out a very complete and true picture of his individuality and the Notes are often an open sesame to the artistic works Several thickly written pages of observations fine and accurate etchings have been omitted sometimes because too personal with regard to himself or others and sometimes because they were afterwards absorbed into one or another of the Romances or papers in Our Old Home It seemed a pity not to give these original cartoons fresh from his mind because they are so carefully finished at the first stroke Yet as Mr Hawthorne chose his own way of presenting them to the public it was thought better not to exhibit what he himself withheld Besides to any other than a fellow artist they might seem mere repetitions It is very earnestly hoped that these volumes of notes American English and presently Italian will dispel an often expressed opinion that Mr Hawthorne was gloomy and morbid He had the inevitable pensiveness and gravity of a person who possessed what a friend of his called the awful power of insight but his mood was always cheerful and equal and his mind peculiarly healthful and the airy splendor of his wit and humor was the light of his home He saw too far to be despondent though his vivid sympathies and shaping imagination often made him sad in behalf of others He also perceived morbidness wherever it existed instantly as if by the illumination of his own steady cheer and he had the plastic power of putting himself into each person s situation and of looking from every point of view which made his charity most comprehensive From this cause he necessarily attracted confidences and became confessor to very many sinning and suffering souls to whom he gave tender sympathy and help while resigning judgment to the Omniscient and All wise Throughout his journals it will be seen that Mr Hawthorne is entertaining and not asserting opinions and ideas He questions doubts and reflects with his pen and as it were instructs himself So that these Note Books should be read not as definitive conclusions of his mind but merely as passing impressions often Whatever conclusions be arrived at are condensed in the works given to the world by his own hand in which will never be found a careless word He was so extremely scrupulous about the value and effect of every expression that the Editor has felt great compunction in allowing a single sentence to be printed unrevised by himself but with the consideration of the above remarks always kept in mind these volumes are intrusted to the generous interpretation of the reader If any one must be harshly criticised it ought certainly to be the Editor When a person breaks in unannounced upon the morning hours of an artist and finds him not in full dress the intruder and not the surprised artist is doubtless at fault S H PREFACE S H PREFACE Index Prologue TTN Korea English Classics 999 7 9 Nathaniel Hawthorne 01 02 Salem witch trials 1692 03 Hawthorne Hawthorne 04 Bowdoin College 1821 1825 05 Fanshawe 1828 06 Twice Told Tales 1837 1842 07 The Custom House 1846 1849 08 14 1852 09 Audio Books Nathaniel Hawthorne Passages from the English Notebooks Complete by Nathaniel Hawthorne PASSAGES FROM THE ENGLISH NOTE BOOKS VOL I Preface Passages From Hawthorne s English Note Books A Walk To Bebbington Rock Park Eaton Hall Conway Castle Leamington To The Lakes Newby Bridge Foot Of

Hawthorne, 2017-10-06 Nathaniel Hawthorne was an American novelist, dark romantic, and short story writer. He was born in 1804 in Salem, Massachusetts, to Nathaniel Hathorne and the former Elizabeth Clarke Manning. His ancestors include John Hathorne, the only judge involved in the Salem witch trials who never repented of his actions. Nathaniel later added a 'w' to make his name Hawthorne in order to hide this relation. He entered Bowdoin College in 1821, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in 1824, and graduated in 1825. He published his first work in 1828, the novel Fanshawe; he later tried to suppress it, feeling that it was not equal to the standard of his later work. He published several short stories in periodicals, which he collected in 1837 as Twice Told Tales. The next year he became engaged to Sophia Peabody. He worked at the Boston Custom House and joined Brook Farm, a transcendentalist community, before marrying Peabody in 1842. The couple moved to The Old Manse in Concord, Massachusetts, later moving to Salem, the Berkshires, then to The Wayside in Concord. The Scarlet Letter was published in 1850, followed by a succession of other novels. A political appointment as consul took Hawthorne and family to Europe before their return to Concord in 1860. Hawthorne died on May 19, 1864, and was survived by his wife and their three children. Much of Hawthorne's writing centers on New England, many works featuring moral metaphors with an anti-Puritan inspiration. His fiction works are considered part of the Romantic movement and more specifically dark romanticism. His themes often center on the inherent evil and sin of humanity, and his works often have moral messages and deep psychological complexity. His published works include novels, short stories, and a biography of his college friend Franklin Pierce, the 14th President of the United States.
