Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice:

HRM Practices and Employee Commitment Gilles Simard, Olivier Doucet, Sarah Bernard, 2010 This study clarifies the role of organizational justice in the relationship between human resources management practices and commitment. Specifically we develop and test a model in which the principal forms of justice distributive procedural and interactional represent mediating variables in relationships between affective commitment and the four types of HRM practices information sharing knowledge development non monetary recognition and power sharing included in the model developed by Lawler 1986 Meyer and Smith 2000 underscore that because few empirical studies have explored the relationship between HRM practices and commitment it is important to determine how such practices influence employee commitment to organizations. Their results have shed light on the role of perception of organizational support and procedural justice as a mediating factor between certain HRM practices and organizational commitment. Consistent with the recommendation of these authors our model rests on the theory of social exchange Blau 1964 and posits the three forms of organizational justice as mediating variables. Social exchange unlike economic exchange implies a relationship of exchange through unspecified obligations between the parties. Through the reciprocity norm individuals in a climate of mutual trust maintain an exchange relationship with others to whom they feel obliged because they have received something from them. In a company this pattern may correspond to organizations expectation that employees will develop favorable attitudes such as commitment in return for the introduction of HRM practices. Nonetheless the specialized literature also clearly highlights theoretical links between social exchange and perceptions of organizational justice Greenberg 1987 Moorman 1991. In this perspective organizational justice encourages the development of effective commitment by enhancing employees feeling of reciprocity toward the organization a sentiment created by the introduction of HRM practices. As part of this research project a questionnaire was distributed in September 2001 to 232 managers of financial services of a private company operating in the Canadian banking sector. Of these questionnaires 134 were returned corresponding to a respectable response rate of 58%. To test our research hypothesis we carried out hierarchical regression analyses according to the steps described by Kenny Kashy and Bolger 1998. These analyses confirmed our hypothesis by demonstrating that each of the forms of justice indeed represents a mediating variable between the practices specified by Lawler 1986 and affective commitment. More specifically we conclude that 1 non monetary recognition has an indirect effect on commitment through the three forms of justice 2 interactional justice is a mediating variable between knowledge development and commitment 3 procedural justice is a mediating variable between the practices of autonomy initiative and commitment and 4 consulting has both a direct and indirect effect on affective commitment through procedural justice. Our observations corroborate the results of previous studies Meyer and Smith 2000 Schappe 1996 that had affirmed a mediating effect of procedural justice between certain practices and organizational commitment. This study also makes a significant contribution with important theoretical and practical implications. First our research supplements the literature on this topic by proposing an integrating model that measures the simultaneous effect of a larger number of practices than previous studies and that integrates the three principal forms of justice as a mediating variable. Moreover our results demonstrate that organizations should pay attention to their employees' perception of justice if they want to significantly increase the employees' affective commitment by putting HRM practices in place. Moreover, regarding the individual effects of practices our results suggest that organizations should first target non-monetary recognition practices followed by power sharing practices, consultation, autonomy initiative and knowledge development practices. Lastly our results confirm that the competitive advantage of successful firms mainly arises from their capacity to increase the added value of their human resources. Becker and Huselid 1999. To attain organizational success they must innovate in HRM notably by applying practices that favor the adoption of positive attitudes and behaviors toward the organization. Companies should thus encourage managers to act in compliance with equity, impartiality and respect to stimulate the affective commitment of their employees and maximize the investment required by the introduction of HRM practices.

Handbook of Research on Organizational Justice and Culture in Higher Education Institutions

Ololube, Nwachukwu Prince, 2016-04-20. Fairness in the workplace is a key element to the successful management and development of an organization. By evaluating the treatment of employees within educational settings as well as examining their reaction to fair and effective leadership practices an institution gains a competitive edge within the global academic landscape. The Handbook of Research on Organizational Justice and Culture in Higher Education Institutions examines employee perspectives and behavior within educational settings. Highlighting the application of organizational integrity practices being used to meet the demands of institutional employees within developing and developed economies this publication is a vital reference source for academicians, professionals, researchers and students interested in higher education, business management and development.

Weathering the Storm: Innovation-Driven Human Resource Management Practices Regina Lenart-Gansiniec, Barbara A. Sypniewska, Jin Chen, 2023-01-01 Innovation driven human resource management practices A systematic review integrative framework and future research directions Abstract PURPOSE It is increasingly emphasized that human resource management practices HRMP which refer to recruiting and selection training and development compensation and performance appraisal are of great importance for creating innovation However the COVID 19 pandemic has shown that traditional HRMPs are already insufficient which entails the need to rethink and reformulate them in the direction of more effective innovation while also allowing organizations to survive COVID 19 like crises While there is an extensive literature on human resources management and innovation there is still no consensus on innovation driven HRMP This study aims to identify and synthesize most significant and trustworthy research contributions of innovation driven HRMP In addition to facilitate theory building in the field of HRMP this article consolidates the existing knowledge into an integrative framework This framework can be used by future researchers to identify gaps and ambiguities in the meaning of innovation driven HRMP METHODOLOGY The article presents the results of a systematic literature review of 71 empirical research articles referring to innovation driven HRMP from the Web of Science and Scopus databases FINDINGS The systematic literature review allowed us to identify innovation driven HRMP taking into account three levels of analysis individual group and organizational with the latter level of analysis being dominant in previous publications Recognition of innovation driven HRMP taking into account the levels in question is included in an integrative framework which is the theoretical basis for guiding future research Our results confirmed the growing trend in the number of publications on the subject since 2010 Most researchers used a quantitative approach Based on the first author's affiliation authors from Great Britain contributed the largest number of publications Articles are published in various journals but mainly in those on human resources management The research took into account a variety of organizational contexts predominantly in dynamic and complex industries Our findings show that the current state of research on innovation driven HRMP confirms the need for further research in this area Based on this we provided thematic gaps and potential questions for future research divided into three levels of innovation driven HRMP IMPLICATIONS Our systematic literature review allowed us to propose implications for future researchers planning to conduct research in the field of innovation driven HRMP ORIGINALITY AND VALUE Our systematic literature review focuses on identifying innovation driven HRMP along with determining the current state of knowledge and future research directions in this area In addition we developed an integrative framework that aims at organizing existing literature but also at identifying promising future research directions into innovation driven HRMP Keywords human resources management human resources management practices innovation innovation driven integrative framework systematic literature review thematic gaps emerging research directions Sustainable human resource management practices in organizational performance The mediating impacts of knowledge management and work engagement Abstract PURPOSE Modern business and global organizations are regularly presented with challenges caused by unpredictable competitive environments Human resource management HRM practices give sustainable opportunities for employees to use their abilities and express their enthusiasm to obtain skills and knowledge and to apply them at the workplace with a view to achieving engaged individuals and increasing organizational performance This article presents a recent study outcome to examine i the mediating role of knowledge management and work engagement and ii the effect of sustainable HRM practices on organizational performance METHODOLOGY 500 self reported questionnaires were distributed to Jordanian university lecturers research population for data collection The study data were assessed with structural equation modeling SEM using IBM SPSS AMOS 25 0 FINDINGS Two pivotal outcomes were identified i sustainable HRM practices knowledge management and work engagement were positively associated with organizational performance ii knowledge management and work engagement played a mediating role in the sustainable HRM practice organizational performance correlation IMPLICATIONS Overall employee cooperation proved essential to optimize organizational performance specifically during their engagement in sustainable HRM practices and knowledge management Finally the research proposed several practical recommendations and interventions on sustainable HRM for future research ORIGINALITY AND VALUE The research has provided proof of five variable relationships contained in the model Firstly organizational performance increased with sustainable HRM practices through knowledge management Secondly organizational performance increased with sustainable HRM practices through work engagement Thirdly work engagement common exercise conducted in many organizations Employees need to know the feedback on their performance from the management Often the results of performance evaluation exercises are used for promotion confirmation in service and awarding of bonuses for employees However the performance evaluation exercise often meets with criticism due to the presence of subjective factors and specifically the way in which these factors are handled The purpose of the present paper is to show how the Ratings mode of the Analytic Hierarchy Process AHP can be applied to evaluate employee performance using objective as well as subjective criteria METHODOLOGY The whole AHP exercise for the present employee performance evaluation has been shown through a case study on CLSB a company in Kuala Lumpur Malaysia Four senior managers and the Managing Director of the company were involved in all phases of the present evaluation exercise including elicitation of the criteria sub criteria and assigning weights to them The AHP data were analyzed using software called AHP Calc version 24 12 13 developed by Klaus D Goepel and available online In particular the Ratings mode of AHP was used to evaluate employees performance at CLSB FINDINGS Five criteria namely Services Quality Financial Timing and Teamwork are found to be important for the evaluation of employee performance at CLSB Each of these criteria has sub criteria Harmonious work Skills and Punctuality are found to be the three most important sub criteria for the present evaluation exercise The outcome of the evaluation exercise provides an ordered set of ranks of 20 employees working in the company Apart from the application of AHP for performance evaluation an ordered set of detailed rubrics for all the criteria have been developed The rubrics provide precise guidelines to the evaluators at the time of evaluating employees performance IMPLICATIONS An evaluation scheme that is scientific and systematic such as the present one will minimize criticism levied against the performance evaluation exercise Once the employees are aware of the criteria and sub criteria set along with the associated weighting scheme and the evaluation process itself they will be motivated to perform their tasks and discharge their duties accordingly Hence employee job satisfaction and productivity are expected to increase This will bolster not only the employees morale but also the organization's overall performance ORIGINALITY AND VALUE In the literature many schemes are available to evaluate employees performance But often these methods are criticized as they either take all the criteria of evaluation as equally important or they lack the capability to strike a balance between objective and subjective factors The main contribution of the present work is to show how AHP can alleviate the above drawbacks of the existing methods The present research work has developed a performance evaluation method which is simple and straightforward and the detailed steps have been elaborated on how the method can actually be applied to measure the performance of employees The method can be applied to measure employees performance of other companies with the necessary modification of the criteria set and assigning appropriate weights to them Keywords employee performance employee performance evaluation reward training need AHP Ratings The influence of e trust on a job performance model based on employees dynamic capabilities during a crisis caused by a Black Swan event Abstract PURPOSE In a crisis such as the COVID 19 pandemic employees play a key role in the ability to survive and achieve both sufficient and outstanding performance in the organization. Therefore both the characteristics of people in the organization and the possibility of influencing the improvement of their performance at work have become the focus of attention of scientists and practitioners. In this context the purpose of this article is to analyze the role of e-trust in strengthening the influence of employees' dynamic capabilities on the job performance of employees among organizations operating under the conditions of the COVID 19 pandemic. METHODOLOGY An empirical study was performed based on the Employees' Dynamic Capabilities model. In order to verify the potential relations empirical studies were conducted in 1200 organizations located in Poland, Italy and USA. The companies were selected on the basis of the purposive manner. The structured questionnaire was prepared and the CAWI Computer Assisted Web Interview method was used in this research. The reliability of the scales used in the survey was tested and afterwards a multigroup path analysis was performed using IBM SPSS AMOS. The model was verified confirming the presumed relationships between the variables. FINDINGS It has been proven that the higher the level of e-trust is the stronger the influence of EDC is on job performance of organizations operating under a crisis caused by a Black Swan event mediated by P-J fit, work motivation, job satisfaction and work engagement. IMPLICATIONS This study contributes to the current knowledge of management in particular human resource management. In the theoretical area the relationships between the factors influencing job performance in the difficult conditions of the crisis caused by the Black Swan event were described. On the other hand from a practical point of view indications on how to shape leadership behavior during remote work with particular emphasis on the e-trust aspect seem to be important. ORIGINALITY AND VALUE This research enriches the considerations regarding the existing Employees' Dynamic Capabilities model. The role of the e-trust factor which is an important part of e-leadership in the context of the impact on this model was indicated and discussed. The conclusions are a solid step in the development of knowledge about managing employees during remote work which not only became a solution for the time of the crisis but was also permanently introduced to the current work organization. Keywords management, e-trust, employee, dynamic capabilities, person, job fit, motivation, satisfaction, work engagement, job performance

Organizational Justice and Employee Commitment Mohsan Mian Faizan, 2015-11-30 Banking sector of Pakistan is a major and very competitive sector of Pakistan's economy. It plays a significant role in the economic development of the country. Over the past few decades due to privatization of banking sector in Pakistan employees are demanding more fairness in performance evaluation processes from the financial institutions which boosts the competition among the banks and compels them to practice organizational justice effectively so that competitive edge can be attained in the form of satisfied and loyal employee base. This book aims at investigating the phenomenon of organizational justice in association with organizational commitment with reference to the banking sector of Pakistan. The survey methodology was used in this study and data were collected through questionnaire from 225 respondents The collected data then analyzed using the Microsoft excel and SPSS 19 This study found significant and positive association of organizational justice with employee commitment It is suggested that higher turnover problem of the banking sector in Pakistan could be solved by provoking justice within the organization Recommendations for future research are also made Organizational Identification, Job Involvement, Perceived

Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice Introduction

In today's digital age, the availability of Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals for download has revolutionized the way we access information. Gone are the days of physically flipping through pages and carrying heavy textbooks or manuals. With just a few clicks, we can now access a wealth of knowledge from the comfort of our own homes or on the go. This article will explore the advantages of Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals for download, along with some popular platforms that offer these resources. One of the significant advantages of Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals for download is the cost-saving aspect. Traditional books and manuals can be costly, especially if you need to purchase several of them for educational or professional purposes. By accessing Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice versions, you eliminate the need to spend money on physical copies. This not only saves you money but also reduces the environmental impact associated with book production and transportation. Furthermore, Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals for download are incredibly convenient. With just a computer or smartphone and an internet connection, you can access a vast library of resources on any subject imaginable. Whether you're a student looking for textbooks, a professional seeking industry-specific manuals, or someone interested in self-improvement, these digital resources provide an efficient and accessible means of acquiring knowledge. Moreover, PDF books and manuals offer a range of benefits compared to other digital formats. PDF files are designed to retain their formatting regardless of the device used to open them. This ensures that the content appears exactly as intended by the author, with no loss of formatting or missing graphics. Additionally, PDF files can be easily annotated, bookmarked, and searched for specific terms, making them highly practical for studying or referencing. When it comes to accessing Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals, several platforms offer an extensive collection of resources. One such platform is Project Gutenberg, a nonprofit organization that provides over 60,000 free eBooks. These books are primarily in the public domain, meaning they can be freely distributed and downloaded. Project Gutenberg offers a wide range of classic literature, making it an excellent resource for literature enthusiasts. Another popular platform for Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals is Open Library. Open Library is an initiative of the Internet Archive, a non-profit organization dedicated to digitizing cultural artifacts and making them accessible to the public. Open Library hosts millions of books, including both public domain works and contemporary titles. It also allows users to borrow digital copies of certain books for a limited period, similar to a library lending system. Additionally, many universities and educational institutions have their own digital libraries that provide free access to PDF books and manuals. These libraries often offer academic texts, research papers, and technical manuals, making them invaluable resources for students and researchers. Some notable examples include MIT OpenCourseWare, which offers free access to course materials from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the Digital Public Library of America, which provides a vast collection of digitized books and historical documents. In conclusion, Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals for download have transformed the way we access information. They provide a cost-effective and convenient means of acquiring knowledge, offering the ability to access a vast library of resources at our fingertips. With platforms like Project Gutenberg, Open Library, and various digital libraries offered by educational institutions, we have access to an ever-expanding collection of books and manuals. Whether for educational, professional, or personal purposes, these digital resources serve as valuable tools for continuous learning and self-improvement. So why not take advantage of the vast world of Organizational Justice Employee Commitment Practice books and manuals for download and embark on your journey of knowledge?
