Visit to the zoo

I recently went on a visit to the zoo, and it was so much fun! I saw all sorts of amazing animals, including lions, giraffes, and monkeys. My favorite part was seeing the elephants, because they were so big and majestic. I also got to see a baby elephant, and it was so cute and playful. I also saw some flamingos, and they were so colorful and graceful. The zoo was a great place to learn about all the different animals and see them up close. I can't wait to go back and see even more amazing creatures.

Among those the phonological awareness the alphabetic principle the decoding the fluency the lexical development and the text comprehension development. The reading comprehension is strongly related with the development of vocabulary oral language linguistic skills memory skills and ability to make inferences and the world experiences of each individual. These processes become important only when the professional needs to deal with students presenting difficulties in learning how to read. The difficulty using the knowledge of conversion rules between grapheme and phoneme to the word reading construction characterizes the dyslexia which is a specific learning disorder with a neurological source. These difficulties presented by students with dyslexia interfere in their learning process impairing the learning development. Knowing and following the reading development and its processes as well as obtaining the punctuation of fluency abilities and students comprehension allow us to understand what happens when the student presents difficulties to read. This could help in the identification of learning disabilities and in the development of intervention programs
