Yongtao Li,Luis G. Gimenez-Lirola,Bin Li,Wentao Li,2023-05-11      African swine fever virus (ASFV) in the one health approach

Francesca De Falco ,Fernando Costa Ferreira,2025-09-30 African swine fever ASF was originated in Africa in the 1920s and the disease spread to the Caucasian region of Georgia in 2007. Acute ASF is a highly contagious viral disease of domestic and wild pigs with a rapid onset and short duration and is characterized by high fever, loss of appetite, cyanosis and severe internal bleeding. Pork meat is one of the primary sources of animal proteins accounting for more than 35% of the global meat intake hence this disease poses a serious problem for food security worldwide. This disease is also a concern for biodiversity and the balance of ecosystems as it affects not only domestic farmed pigs but also wild boars including native breeds. The virus is highly resistant in the environment clothes, boots, wheels, etc. and can also survive in various pork products, ham, sausages or bacon. The world's pig population was estimated at over 784 million in 2022. China alone contains more than half of the total pig population. Pig farms play a key role in human health and nutrition as well as promoting poverty reduction in rural areas. In recent years the urgent need to monitor and control diseases in the animal sector such as the concept of one health has demonstrated significant technological advances. For this reason research on diseases in the pig sector does not only address human and animal health issues but also socio economic aspects      Nutrition Abstracts and Reviews ,2005
