Karen White, 2014-01-07 In the fourth novel in the New York Times bestselling Tradd Street series Charleston realtor Melanie Middleton is determined to leave the past behind her. But history has a tendency of catching up with her whether she likes it or not. Melanie is only going through the motions of living since refusing Jack Trenholm's marriage proposal. She misses him desperately but her broken heart is the least of her problems. Despite an insistence that she can raise their child alone, Melanie is completely unprepared for motherhood and she struggles to complete renovations on her house on Tradd Street before the baby arrives. When Melanie is roused one night by the sound of a ghostly infant crying she chooses to ignore it. She simply does not have the energy to deal with one more crisis. That is until the remains of a newborn buried in an old christening gown are found hidden in the foundation of her house. As the hauntings on Tradd Street slowly become more violent, Melanie decides to find out what caused the baby's untimely death, uncovering the love loss and betrayal that color the house's history and threaten her claim of ownership. Cathy Burnett, Julia Davies, Guy Merchant, Jennifer Rowsell, 2014-07-11 The increasing popularity of digitally mediated communication is prompting us to radically rethink literacy and its role in education at the same time national policies have promulgated a view of literacy focused on the skills and classroom routines associated with print bolstered by regimes of accountability and assessments. As a result teachers are caught between two competing discourses one upholding a traditional conception of literacy reiterated by politicians and policy makers and the other encouraging a more radical take on 21st century literacies driven by leading edge thinkers and researchers. There is a pressing need for a book which engages researchers in international dialogue around new literacies their implications for policy and practice and how they might articulate across national boundaries. Drawing on cutting edge research from the USA Canada UK Australia and South Africa this book is a pedagogical and policy driven call for change It explores studies of literacy practices in varied contexts through a refreshingly dialogic style interspersed with commentaries which comment on the significance of the work described for education The book concludes on the conversation developed to identify key recommendations for policy makers through a Charter for Literacy Education    The Obelisk and Its Voices Henry B.
