Nature And Architecture:

Architecture and Nature Sarah Bonnemaison,Christine Macy,2003-09-02 Winner of the 2006 Alice Davis Hitchcock Award The word nature comes from natura Latin for birth as do the words nation native and innate But nature and nation share more than a common root they share a common history where one term has been used to define the other In the United States the relationship between nation and nature has been central to its colonial and post colonial history from the idea of the noble savage to the myth of the frontier Narrated painted and filmed American landscapes have been central to the construction of a national identity Architecture and Nature presents an in depth study of how changing ideas of what nature is and what it means for the country have been represented in buildings and landscapes over the past century Nature by Design Stephen R. Kellert,2018-04-17

Biophilia is the theory that people possess an inherent affinity for nature which developed during the long course of human evolution In recent years studies have revealed that this inclination continues to be a vital component to human health and wellbeing Given the pace and scale of construction today with its adversarial dominative relationship with nature the integration of nature with the built environment is one of the greatest challenges of our time In this sweeping examination Stephen Kellert describes the basic principles practices and options for successfully implementing biophilic design He shows us what is and isn't good biophilic design using examples of workplaces healthcare facilities schools commercial centers religious structures and hospitality settings This book will appeal to architects designers engineers scholars of human evolutionary biology and with more than one hundred striking images of designs anyone interested in nature inspired spaces

Nature, Landscape, and Building for Sustainability William S. Saunders,2008 The complexity and scale of the environmental problems confronting humanity today provoke a wide range of responses from indifference to anger to creativity Among a growing number of architects landscape architects and planners however these problems have inspired a new vision sustainability to guide their practices In Nature Landscape and Building for Sustainability a diverse group of contributors considers the concept of sustainability both philosophically and practically Some take a broad view of the divisions between nature and humanity exploring the incomprehensible scale of human intervention in the natural world the relationship between how we feel about nature and what we do about it and the commodification of the natural world Other essays focus on sustainable design practices sustainability's roots in the American conservation tradition its utility as a framework for future design practice and the necessity of moving beyond demonstration projects into the mainstream Together these essays suggest that the gap between the promise and reality of sustainable design although significant can be bridged through diligence and practice Contributors D Michelle Addington Yale U John Beardsley Harvard Graduate School of Design Albert Borgmann U of Montana Missoula Peter Buchanan Peter Del Tredici Harvard Graduate School of Design Robert France Harvard Graduate School of Design Susannah Hagan U of East London Kristina Hill U of Virginia Catherine Howett U of Georgia Niall Kirkwood Harvard Graduate School of Design Lucy R

The Return of Nature Preston Cohen,Erika Naginski,2014-07-09 The Return of Nature asks you to critique your conception of nature and your approach to architectural sustainability and green design What do the terms mean Are they de facto design requirements Or are they unintended design replacements The book is divided into five parts giving you multiple viewpoints on the role of the relations between architecture nature technology and culture A detailed case study of a built project concludes each part to help you translate theory into practice This holistic approach will allow you to formulate your own theory and to adjust your practice based on your findings Will you provoke change design architecture that responds to change or both Coedited by an architect and a historian the book features new essays by Robert Levit Catherine Ingraham Sylvia Lavin Barry Bergdoll K Michael Hays Diane Lewis Andrew Payne Mark Jarzombek Jean Francois Chevrier Elizabeth Diller Antoine Picon and Jorge Silvetti Five case studies document the work of MOS Architects Michael Bell Architecture Steven Holl Architects George L Legendre and Preston Scott Cohen

Raw: Architectural Engagements with Nature Brit Strandhagen,Dr Hege Charlotte Faber,Dr Solveig Bøe,2014-10-28 Through cross disciplinary explorations of and engagements with nature as a forming part of architecture this volume sheds light on the concepts of both nature and architecture Nature is examined in a raw intermediary state where it is noticeable as nature despite but at the same time through man s effort at creating form This is done by approaching nature from the perspective of architecture understood not only as concrete buildings but as a fundamental human way both of being in and relating to the world Man finds and forms places where life may take place Consequently architecture may be understood as ranging from the simple mark on the ground and primitive enclosure to the contemporary megalopolis Nature inheres in many aesthetic forms of expression In architecture however nature emerges with a particular power and clarity which makes architecture a raw kind of art Even though other forms of art as well as aesthetic phenomena outside the arts are addressed the analogy to architecture will be evident and important Thus by using the concept of raw as a focal point this book provides new approaches to architecture in a broad sense as well as other aesthetic and artistic practices and will be of interest to readers from different fields of the arts and humanities spanning from philosophy and theology to history of art architecture and music

The Culture of Nature in the History of Design Kjetil Fallan,2019-03-26 The Culture of Nature in the History of Design confronts the dilemma caused by design s pertinent yet precarious position in environmental discourse through interdisciplinary conversations about the design of nature and the nature of design Demonstrating that the deep entanglements of design and nature have a deeper and broader history than contemporary discourse on sustainable design and ecological design might imply this book presents case studies ranging from the eighteenth to the twenty first century and from Singapore to Mexico It gathers scholarship on a broad range of fields practices from urban planning landscape architecture and architecture to engineering design industrial design furniture design and graphic design From adobe architecture to the atomic bomb from the bonsai tree to Biosphere 2 from pesticides to photovoltaics from rust to recycling the culture of nature permeates the history of design As an activity and a profession always operating in the borderlands between human and non human environments design has always been part of the environmental problem whilst also being an indispensable part of the solution The book ventures into domains as diverse as design theory research pedagogy politics activism organizations exhibitions and fiction and trade literature to explore how design is constantly making and unmaking the environment and conversely how the environment is both making and unmaking design This book will be of great interest to a range of scholarly fields from design education and design history to environmental policy and environmental history

Back to Nature Cayetano Cardelús Vidal,2024 Design Ecologies: Sustainable Potentials in Architecture Lisa Tilder,Beth Blostein,2010 This title explores current interpretations of contemporary ecological practices in architecture landscape architecture and community design It includes a list of contributors including Jane Amidon and Blaine Brownell

Architecture Follows Nature-Biomimetic Principles for Innovative Design Ilaria Mazzoleni,2013-03-21 Applying Properties of Animals Skins to Inspire Architectural Envelopes Biology influences design projects in many ways the related discipline is known as biomimetics or biomimicry Using the animal kingdom as a source of inspiration Ilaria Mazzoleni seeks to instill a shift in thinking about the application of biological principles to design and architecture She focuses on the analysis of how organisms have adapted to different environments and translates the learned principles into the built environment To illustrate the methodology Mazzoleni draws inspiration from the diversity of animal coverings referred to broadly as skin and applies them to the design of building envelopes through a series of twelve case studies Skin is a complex organ that performs a multitude of functions namely it serves as a link between the body and the environment Similarly building envelopes act as interfaces between their inhabitants and external elements The resulting architectural designs illustrate an integrative methodology that allows architecture to follow nature Ilaria Mazzoleni in collaboration with biologist Shauna Price has developed a profound methodology for architectural and design incentives that anticipates and proposes novel ways to explore undiscovered biological inspirations for various audiences Yoseph Bar Cohen Ian McHarg / Dwelling in Nature Ian L. McHarg,James Corner,2007-01-25 One of the legendary figures in twentieth century landscape design Ian McHarg transformed the fields of landscape architecture and planning through his personal methodology his unique curriculum at the University of Pennsylvania and his own inspired writing In classic texts such as his landmark 1969 book Design with Nature McHarg painted an incredibly rich and exuberant picture of the organic world while conjuring up a vision of a more wholesome and productive metropolis In this new entry in the popular Conversations with Students series

we are proud to make McHarg's never before in print lecture Collaboration with Nature available for the first time. Captured on tape in the 1970s the lecture is the sequel to Design with Nature. This is a must read for anyone in the fields of landscape architecture, environmental science and urban planning.

Artificial Nature Architecture Luis de Garrido, 2011

Luis de Garrido is pioneering a new architectural concept Artificial Nature. An artificial eco system incorporating manmade artefacts and buildings with its own rules and which evolves alongside the natural eco system.

Leonardo da Vinci – Nature and Architecture Constance Moffatt, Sara Taglialagamba, 2019-06-17

The second volume of Leonardo Studies explores a dual theme of nature and architecture offering a wide ranging overview of current Leonardo scholarship on these two abundant subjects. While Leonardo worked on his Treatise on Painting he noted that understanding the physical properties of nature must precede individual projects of painting or designing buildings. The volume begins with the Trattato and follows with physics, geology, painting that imitates architectural structure and vice versa and proceeds to architectural projects, questions of attribution, urban planning and the dissemination of Leonardo's writings in the Trattato and its historiography. This impressive group of articles constitutes not only new research but also a departure point for future studies on these topics.

The Theory of Architecture Paul-Alan Johnson, 1994-04-18

The Theory of Architecture Concepts, Themes, Practices. Paul Alan Johnson. Although it has long been thought that theory directs architectural practice, no one has explained precisely how the connection between theory and practice is supposed to work. This guide asserts that architectural theory does not direct practice but is itself a form of reflective practice. Paul Alan Johnson cuts through the jargon and mystery of architectural theory to clarify how it relates to actual applications in the field. He also reveals the connections between new and old ideas to enhance the reader's powers of critical evaluation. Nearly 100 major concepts, themes and practices of architecture as well as the rhetoric of architects and designers are presented in an easily accessible format. Throughout Johnson attempts to reduce each architectural notion into its essential concept. By doing so he makes theory accessible for everyday professional discussion. Topics are arranged under ten headings: identification, definition, power, attitudes, ethics, order, authority, governance, relationship and expression. Areas covered under these headings include Utopic thought in theories of architecture, Advocacy and citizen participation in architecture, The basis of architectural quality and excellence, The roles of the architect as artist, poet, scientist and technologist, Ethical obligations of architecture, Rationales for models and methods of design, How authority is determined in architecture, How architects structure their concepts, Conventions of communication within the architectural profession. Each section begins by showing the etymology of key terms of the topic discussed along with a summary history of the topic s use in architecture Discussions probe the conceptual and philosophical difficulties of different theories as well as their potential and limitations in past and present usage Among the provocative issues discussed in terms of their relationship to architecture are chaos theory feminism service to the community and the use of metaphor Johnson points out with stunning clarity the intentions as well as the contradictions and inconsistencies of all notions and concepts All architects and designers as well as students and teachers in these disciplines will gain many insights about architectural thought in this groundbreaking text

Taking

Shape: A New Contract Between Architecture and Nature Susannah Hagan,2007-08-22 Taking Shape explores the evolution of scientific and academic theories that have resulted in the concept of sustainability Susannah Hagan uses this as a basis to argue for developments in the future and argues that these theories are not just an intellectual and aesthetic regression as they are often perceived to be By focusing on the impact of the new theories of sustainable technology and new materials in architecture Hagan moves the discourse and practice of environmental sustainability within architecture towards a greater degree of awareness of both its cultural significance and cultural potential In short it demonstrates the capacity of sustainable architecture to embrace cultural and technical innovation

Remote Performances in Nature and Architecture

Mr Bruce Gilchrist,Jo Joelson,Ms Tracey Warr,2015-09-28 Based on a series of residencies and radio broadcasts produced by London Fieldworks in collaboration with Resonance 104 4fm the Remote Performances project enabled twenty invited artists to consider and engage in transmissions sound performances and dialogues on their artmaking strategies immersed in this specific rural environment of mountain forest and river flora and fauna Some artists engaged in dialogue with people living and working in the area with a range of specialisms and experience in for examples forestry mountain culture wildlife tourism and local history This book explores the ways in which being in the field impacts on artists and permeates through to the artworks they create It considers the relationship between geography and contemporary art and artists use of maps and fieldwork It charts these artists explorations of the ecological and cultural value of the natural environment questioning our perceptions and relationships to landscape climate and their changes The book is an inspiring collection of ways to think differently about our relationship with the changing natural environment

Nature Through a Hospital Window Shan Jiang (Commercial artist),2022 Adopting an evidence based approach this book uses two state of the art experimental studies to explore nature s therapeutic benefits in healthcare environments emphasizing how windows and transparent spaces can strengthen people nature interactions High quality supportive and patient centred healthcare environments are a key priority for healthcare designers worldwide with ageing populations creating a demand for remodelled and updated facilities The first study demonstrates individual psychophysiological responses moods and preferences in simulated hospital waiting areas with different levels of visual access to nature through windows while the second experiment uses cutting edge immersive virtual reality techniques to explore how gardens and nature views impact people's spatial cognition wayfinding behaviors and experience when navigating hospitals. Through these studies and discussions drawing on architectural theory and history the book highlights the important benefits of having access to nature from hospital interiors. This concise volume will appeal to academics and designers interested in therapeutic landscapes and healthcare architecture.

Subnature: Architecture's Other Environments David Gissen, 2009-10-07 This book examines experimental work by today's leading designers, scholars, philosophers, and biologists that rejects the idea that humans can somehow recreate a purely natural world free of the untidy elements that actually constitute nature.
