Handbook of Linguistic Annotation Nancy Ide, James Pustejovsky, 2017-06-16 This handbook offers a thorough treatment of the science of linguistic annotation Leaders in the field guide the reader through the process of modeling creating an annotation language building a corpus and evaluating it for correctness Essential reading for both computer scientists and linguistic researchers Linguistic annotation is an increasingly important activity in the field of computational linguistics because of its critical role in the development of language models for natural language processing applications Part one of this book covers all phases of the linguistic annotation process from annotation scheme design and choice of representation format through both the manual and automatic annotation process evaluation and iterative improvement of annotation accuracy The second part of the book includes case studies of annotation projects across the spectrum of linguistic annotation types including morpho syntactic tagging syntactic analyses a range of semantic analyses semantic roles named entities sentiment and opinion time and event and spatial analyses and discourse level analyses including discourse structure co reference etc Each case study addresses the various phases and processes discussed in the chapters of part one      The Handbook of Computational Linguistics and Natural Language Processing Alexander Clark, Chris Fox, Shalom Lappin, 2013-04-24 This comprehensive reference work provides an overview of the concepts methodologies and applications in computational linguistics and natural language processing NLP Features contributions by the top researchers in the field reflecting the work that is driving the discipline forward Includes an introduction to the major theoretical issues in these fields as well as the central engineering applications that the work has produced Presents the major developments in an accessible way explaining the close connection between scientific understanding of the computational properties of natural language and the creation of effective language technologies Serves as an invaluable state of the art reference source for computational linguists and software engineers developing NLP applications in industrial research and development labs of software companies

Introduction to Linguistic Annotation and Text Analytics Graham Wilcock, 2022-05-31 Linguistic annotation and text analytics are active areas of research and development with academic conferences and industry events such as the Linguistic Annotation Workshops and the annual Text Analytics Summits This book provides a basic introduction to both fields and aims to show that good linguistic annotations are the essential foundation for good text analytics After briefly reviewing the basics of XML with practical exercises illustrating in line and stand off annotations a chapter is devoted to explaining the different levels of linguistic annotations The reader is encouraged to create example annotations using the WordFreak linguistic annotation tool The next chapter shows how annotations can be created automatically using statistical NLP tools and compares two sets of tools the OpenNLP and

Stanford NLP tools The second half of the book describes different annotation formats and gives practical examples of how to interchange annotations between different formats using XSLT transformations The two main text analytics architectures GATE and UIMA are then described and compared with practical exercises showing how to configure and customize them The final chapter is an introduction to text analytics describing the main applications and functions including named entity recognition coreference resolution and information extraction with practical examples using both open source and commercial tools Copies of the example files scripts and stylesheets used in the book are available from the companion website located at the book website Table of Contents Working with XML Linguistic Annotation Using Statistical NLP Tools Annotation Interchange Annotation Architectures Text Analytics Bootstrapping Named Entity Annotation by Means of Active Machine Learning Fredrik Olsson, 2008 On the development of a method called BootMark for bootstrapping the marking up of named entities in textual documents Statistical Methods for Annotation Analysis Silviu Paun, Ron Artstein, Massimo Poesio, 2022-01-13 Labelling data is one of the most fundamental activities in science and has underpinned practice particularly in medicine for decades as well as research in corpus linguistics since at least the development of the Brown corpus With the shift towards Machine Learning in Artificial Intelligence AI the creation of datasets to be used for training and evaluating AI systems also known in AI as corpora has become a central activity in the field as well Early AI datasets were created on an ad hoc basis to tackle specific problems As larger and more reusable datasets were created requiring greater investment the need for a more systematic approach to dataset creation arose to ensure increased quality A range of statistical methods were adopted often but not exclusively from the medical sciences to ensure that the labels used were not subjective or to choose among different labels provided by the coders A wide variety of such methods is now in regular use This book is meant to provide a survey of the most widely used among these statistical methods supporting annotation practice As far as the authors know this is the first book attempting to cover the two families of methods in wider use The first family of methods is concerned with the development of labelling schemes and in particular ensuring that such schemes are such that sufficient agreement can be observed among the coders The second family includes methods developed to analyze the output of coders once the scheme has been agreed upon particularly although not exclusively to identify the most likely label for an item among those provided by the coders The focus of this book is primarily on Natural Language Processing the area of AI devoted to the development of models of language interpretation and production but many if not most of the methods discussed here are also applicable to other areas of AI or indeed to other areas of Data Science Machine Learning Ivan Bratko, Sašo Ožeroski, 1999 Annotation for the Semantic Web Siegfried Handschuh, Steffen Staab, 2003 Fifth Conference on Applied Natural Language Processing Association for Computational Linguistics, 1997 Collaborative Annotation for Reliable Natural Language Processing Karën Fort, 2016 This book presents a unique opportunity for constructing a consistent image of collaborative manual annotation for Natural Language

Processing NLP NLP has witnessed two major evolutions in the past 25 years firstly the extraordinary success of machine learning which is now for better or for worse overwhelmingly dominant in the field and secondly the multiplication of evaluation campaigns or shared tasks Both involve manually annotated corpora for the training and evaluation of the systems These corpora have progressively become the hidden pillars of our domain providing food for our hungry machine learning algorithms and reference for evaluation Annotation is now the place where linguistics hides in NLP However manual annotation has largely been ignored for some time and it has taken a while even for annotation guidelines to be recognized as essential Although some efforts have been made lately to address some of the issues presented by manual annotation there has still been little research done on the subject This book aims to provide some useful insights into the subject Manual corpus annotation is now at the heart of NLP and is still largely unexplored There is a need for manual annotation engineering in the sense of a precisely formalized process and this book aims to provide a first step towards a holistic methodology with a global view on annotation
