Diffused Illumination

- Uses widest slit, longest aperture
- Light source positioned at an angle of 40°-50°
- Used to view overall areas, to observe the ocular adnexa, cornea, sclera, lids, conjunctiva, lens surface, and CL fitting characteristics

Direct Illumination

- Most important/useful illumination
- Light source positioned at an angle of 40°-50° to oculars
- Light beam and oculars are focused in coincidence on area being evaluated
- The difference in the illumination is not the angle used, but where the beam is directed or focused and the width
- Varying width and aperture creates different illuminations

Optic(al) Section

- Type of direct illumination that uses a narrow beam to create a cross-section of the cornea
- Used to illuminate and observe individual layers of the cornea and tear film
- Used to evaluate corneal thickness, thinning, distortions, or depth of a foreign body
- Shows corneal-lens relationship

Parallelepiped

- Type of direct illumination
- Uses a 0.5-3.0 mm beam and a 40°-50° angle to create a 3-D cube
- Used to assess width, depth, and height of an object within the cornea
- Useful in observing scars, infiltrates, staining, and the corneal-lens relationship

Indirect Illumination

- Light source is moved out-of-click, the beam is 2-3 mm wide and is positioned next to the area being studied
- Illuminated area is translucent or opaque, allowing for observation adjacent to illumination
- Used to observe foreign bodies, corneal nerves, and opacities
- Oscillation of light accentuates details

Retroillumination

- Light source is out-of-click, moved to the side of the area being observed
- Using a 1-3 mm beam, the light is reflected off the iris and used to back-light the area studied
- Useful in examining corneal scars, debris, microcysts, scratches on the lens, sub-epithelial changes, corneal vascularization, diffuse edema, and surface deposits

Sclerotic Scatter

- Uses a focused parallelepiped placed out-of-click directed at the limbus
- Oculars are not used
- The light is dispersed at the limbus, reflected through the cornea, creating a circumcorneal halo

Optician Essentials and Advanced Exam Practice Test Erich W. Mack, 2013-12-08 Success as a professional optician starts with this text. This guide is an invaluable source for learning more advanced ophthalmic optics basic business principals troubleshooting patient problems and solving some of the more tricky optics quandaries. This text reviews the more advanced topics seen on ABO and ABO Advanced exams. Also included are overviews on new topics such as expanded infection types additional optics equations and vision therapy. For those planning on taking the advanced level ABO exam there is included a 198 question practice test and answer key. The practice questions are based on the most recent exam topics. Excerpts It is difficult perhaps impossible to pinpoint when the first corrective lens was created. The history of optics and spectacles dates back very far in time before a written history and involves a variety of characters. The earliest lens called the Nimrud lens could date back as far as 7000 B.C. Current theory states that ancient Mesopotamians called Assyrians manufactured the Nimrud lens which is a magnifying lens to help them carve intricate patterns. On the other hand the Nimrud lens could be what is called a burning glass and used to start fires and not a occupational aid lens at all. Either way the rock crystal Nimrud lens has a 3x magnification power and is the oldest lens of any type that we know of. At the time of this writing it is being housed and displayed at the British Royal museum and worth seeing for yourself. Another possible early lens can be traced through written account to Nero of ancient Rome. Its accepted as fact that he was quite myopic but a tantalizing theory also states he used a polished emerald to peer through while watching gladiatorial games. Could this be the first myopic corrective lens? As an optician it is your job to be an expert in this exciting field and you also have the honor of being part of its history. With the evolution of mass produced frames inexpensive advanced lenses and an online marketplace it is more important than ever to stay abreast of the future of ophthalmics and understand its past. For opticianry to continue to thrive it is vital to position yourself as the definitive professional. This will allow you to separate yourself from the online marketplace and embrace the opportunity to profitably offer products tailored to your patrons needs.
