Location Awareness in the Age of Google Maps Rebecca Noone, 2024-07-12 Location Awareness in the Age of Google Maps explores the mundane act of navigating cities in the age of digital mapping infrastructures Noone follows the frictions routing through Google Maps categorising and classifying of spatial information Complicating the assumption that digital maps distort a sense of direction Noone argues that Google Maps location awareness does more than just organise and orient a representation of space it also organises and orients imaginaries of publicness selfsufficiency legibility and error At the same time Location Awareness in the Age of Google Maps helps to animate the ordinary ways people are challenging and refusing Google Maps vision of the world Drawing on an arts based field study spanning the streets of London New York London Toronto and Amsterdam Noone s encounters of asking for directions open up lines of inquiry and spatial scores that cut through Google s universal mapping project Location Awareness in the Age of Google Maps will be essential reading for information studies and media studies scholars and students with an interest in embodied information practices critical information studies and critical data studies The book will also appeal to an urban studies audience engaged in work on the digital city and the datafication of urban environments Enhancing Fieldwork Learning Using Mobile Technologies Derek France, W. Brian Whalley, Alice Mauchline, Victoria Powell, Katharine Welsh, Alex Lerczak, Julian Park, Robert S.

Bednarz, 2015-09-30 This book shows how tablets and smartphones using a variety of selected apps can enhance fieldwork and other out of classroom activities The authors review imaginative uses of tablets from their own project and as well as examples from other colleagues To help readers keep abreast of new technology and innovative ways to use it the book is supported by a web site and a social media community Mapping and the Citizen Sensor Giles Foody, Linda See, Steffen Fritz, Peter Mooney, Ana-Maria Olteanu-Raimond, Cidália Costa Fonte, Vyron Antoniou, 2017-09-11 Maps are a fundamental resource in a diverse array of applications ranging from everyday activities such as route planning through the legal demarcation of space to scientific studies such as those seeking to understand biodiversity and inform the design of nature reserves for species conservation For a map to have value it should provide an accurate and timely representation of the phenomenon depicted and this can be a challenge in a dynamic world Fortunately mapping activities have benefitted greatly from recent advances in geoinformation technologies Satellite remote sensing for example now offers unparalleled data acquisition and authoritative mapping agencies have developed systems for the routine production of maps in accordance with strict standards Until recently much mapping activity was in the exclusive realm of authoritative agencies but technological development has also allowed the rise of the amateur mapping community The proliferation of inexpensive and highly mobile and location aware devices together with Web 2 0 technology have fostered the emergence of the citizen as a source of data Mapping presently benefits from vast amounts of spatial data as well as people able to provide observations of geographic phenomena which can inform map production revision and evaluation The great potential of these developments is however often limited by concerns The latter span issues from the nature of the citizens through the way data are collected and shared to the quality and trustworthiness of the data This book reports on some of the key issues connected with the use of citizen sensors in mapping It arises from a European Co operation in Science and Technology COST Action which explored issues linked to topics ranging from citizen motivation data acquisition data quality and the use of citizen derived data in the production of maps that rival and sometimes surpass maps arising from authoritative agencies Handbook of Platform

Urbanism Annelien Smets,Pieter Ballon,2025-12-16 This innovative Handbook provides an in depth exploration of how digital platforms are reshaping cities worldwide It presents a comprehensive analysis of data driven urban life evaluating how platforms including Uber Airbnb and Google Maps mediate public services economic activities and social interactions This title contains one or more Open Access chapters Teaching the Global Middle Ages Geraldine Heng,2022-10-28

Offers pedagogical techniques for teaching literature and culture of the medieval world including legends about Alexander and Prester John and contact points such as the Silk Road and the Mongol Empire Gives syllabus suggestions for undergraduate and graduate courses in literature history religion and languages Includes a list of resources The Neighborhood in the Internet John M. Carroll,2014-07-30 Today community seems to be everywhere At home at work and online the vague but comforting idea of the community pervades every area of life But have we lost the ability truly to understand what it means The Neighborhood in the Internet investigates social and civic effects of community networks on local community and how community network designs are appropriated and extended by community members Carroll uses his conceptual model of community to re examine the Blacksburg Electronic Village the first Web based community network applying it to attempts to sustain and enrich contemporary communities through information technology The book provides an analysis of the role of community in contemporary paradigms for work and other activity mediated by the Internet It brings to the fore a series of design experiments investigating new approaches to community networking and addresses the future trajectory and importance of community networks This book will be of interest to students of sociology community psychology human computer interaction information science and computer supported collaborative work Uberworked and Underpaid Trebor Scholz,2016-12-27 This book is about the rise of digital labor Companies like Uber and Amazon Mechanical Turk promise autonomy choice and flexibility One of network culture s toughest critics Trebor Scholz chronicles the work of workers in the sharing economy and the free labor on sites like Facebook to take these myths apart In this rich accessible and provocative book Scholz exposes the uncaring reality of contingent digital work which is thriving at the expense of employment and worker rights The book is meant to inspire readers to join the growing number of worker owned platform cooperatives rethink unions and build a better future of work A call to action loud and clear Uberworked and Underpaid shows that it is time to stop wage theft and crowd fleecing rethink wealth distribution and address the urgent question of how digital labor should be regulated and how workers from Berlin Barcelona Seattle and S o Paulo can act in solidarity to defend their rights

Google and the Mission to Map Meaning and Make Money Bart Milner, 2004 This book is the unfolding story of the new technology of Internet Search how Larry Page and Sergey Brin the founders of Google discovered a new way to index the Internet's network of networks by developing Search methods so powerful that they effectively created a free public and universal library out of billions of random documents It also tells how together with the help of a brilliant team built initially at Stanford University they then found a new way of making money through contextual advertising now worth e billion leaving potential competitors particularly Microsoft far behind It shows how Google's founders have also succeeded in insisting that integrity rather than profit remains at the heart of an enterprise that they will continue to control despite the best efforts of Wall Street The second half of this book also seeks to explain the central problems of machine intelligence the difference between words and their meaning or syntax and semantics which had blocked this kind of IT development for half a century until Google's founders discovered that hypertext the unique feature of the Internet that links documents could be measured and mapped to sort millions of apparently similar pages for relevance and significance Google's pursuit of a hugely ambitious and optimistic American dream that leaves them globally admired and respected keeping their principles intact whilst also creating a fabulously wealthy company is a winning blend of luck jokes mathematical inspiration engineering perspiration deep technical knowledge of the Internet and they would have you believe thousands of highly trained pigeons The book is 288 pages long including a comprehensive index and 600 item bibliography covering virtually all aspects of Internet Search The print version of the book comes with a free online electronic version with hypertext links to related articles and books designed to make any aspect of the history of Internet search easy to find with a couple of mouse clicks The book's author Bart Milner is a trained technology journalist and editor who started using the Web in 1984 with a 300 baud acoustic coupler and then became a developer partly to try and solve the question of why computer logic has been unable to deal with meaning and association This background has given him an insight into the inspired but almost accidental way that Google's founders cracked the problem of finding a significant document from billions of unindexed and changing Web pages in a fraction of a second Anyone interested in the future of the Internet and Information Technology should enjoy this fast and fluid story of a company which has become a flagship business of the 21st century by not conceding any of its integrity and principles to the huge pressures of commercial profit whilst providing some of the most elegant and powerful engineering solutions ever seen on the Net
