Paleozoic Fossils Bruce L. Stinchcomb,2012 In this second book on Paleozoic fossils over 840 all new specimens from this period are provided organized by biologic taxonomic position It is a real eye candy feast for fossil enthusiasts Come and explore the fossil evidence for a world that was ancient and long gone when the dinosaurs ruled the earth Discover the sponges archaeocyathids reef builders cnidaria worms brachiopods bryozoans mollusks arthropods echinoderms and chordates that populated the oceans and inhabited the land from 535 to 235 million years ago Much of the fossil record for this era reveals marine organisms in many forms but this is also the period when clear evidence for plants and animals appears in hard rock While the earth presents many natural barriers to the collecting of Paleozoic fossils the author has overcome those barriers to present readers with a formidable collection

Paleozoic Fossil Plants Bruce L.

Stinchcomb,2013 Over 670 color photos reveal the Paleozoic plants that covered the earth from 500 to 260 million years ago well before the dinosaurs roamed the world These plants provide some of the earliest records to the greening of planet earth

They also make fascinating very attractive fossils which can be considered as nature's artwork. The fossil record provides a window into the first forests of the Devonian Period followed by the peculiar plants of the Lower Carboniferous. These plants in turn were followed by those of the Upper Carboniferous abundant vegetation that is responsible for almost half of the planet's coal seams. Coal swamp vegetation is followed by the more sparse Permian floras which preceded what was the earth's most profound extinction event. Marine plants also make their appearance in the world during this period as do various puzzling fossil tracks and burrows previously thought to be marine plant fossils. This book is for all who are curious about the ancient earth. Abstracts in Anthropology, 1985 Quarterly References to journal articles, miscellaneous papers and books arranged under sections on archaeology, ethnology, linguistics and physical anthropology. Cross references. Cross index.

Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1983. Cenozoic Fossils II Bruce L. Stinchcomb, 2010. 560 color photos and engaging text take readers on a journey back to a world first of tropical climates and then plunging into an Ice Age. It covers the Miocene, Pliocene, Pleistocene and Holocene Epochs and includes a dazzling array of fossils including plants, mollusks, sharks, insects, mammoths and mastodons. This is the age when familiar plants and animals arise and where humans first appear on the Earth. Human intelligence grows and early tools are also included in this sweeping review of recent geological history. The tools include hand axes, Paleolithic scrapers and an easily recognizable Clovis spear point. Explore the dawning of the world we know. Current value ranges for the fossils displayed here are included. This is the perfect gift for anyone who has wondered where we all came from and evidence of how things used to be. World's Oldest Fossils Bruce L.

Stinchcomb, 2007. This valuable book provides information on fossils, fossil collecting and price ranges for most specimens illustrated. The comprehensive text begins with the earliest fossil record of life from strata representative of deep time called the Precambrian by geologists. Foremost in this early record of life are stromatolites, structures formed by very primitive photosynthetic life forms. Attractive color photographs illustrate this highly informative section of the book. Also discussed and illustrated are various problematic fossil-like objects found in very ancient rock strata and the different ways in which they have been interpreted. Paleontological puzzles such as latest Precambrian vendozoans are covered as well. Other chapters feature fossils of the Cambrian Period when animal life became obvious. Fascinating color photographs show trilobites, prehistoric creatures second only to dinosaurs in popularity, plus other Cambrian fossils. Includes helpful glossary of terms. Cenozoic Fossils 1 Bruce L. Stinchcomb, 2010. In his fifth book on collectible fossils, retired geology professor Stinchcomb of St. Louis Community College focuses on the Cenozoic Era, the youngest of the geologic eras, sometimes known as the age of mammals. The first of two books on the era, the text covers the first three of the seven subdivisions of the era: the Paleocene, Eocene and the Oligocene epochs. Coverage includes an opening introduction to the Cenozoic Era, followed by sections on plants, fungi and monerans, foraminifera, corals and mollusks, crustaceans, insects and arachnids, sharks, rays and fish, reptiles and birds, and mammals. Illustrated with 370 plus full color photographs.
