Passion and Craft Michael Szenberg, 1998 Autobiographical essays from twenty top economists at mid career New Frontiers in Economics Michael Szenberg, Lall Ramrattan, 2004-09-06 Leading economists analyze the new directions that subdisciplines of economics have taken in the face of modern economic challenges These essays represent invention and discovery in the areas of information macroeconomics and public policies international trade and development finance business contracts law gaming and government as these areas of study evolve through the different phases of the scientific process They offer a wealth of factual information on the current state of the economy Theoretical and empirical innovations conceptualize reality and values in different ways from their predecessors Together the essays offer the reader a balanced look at the various fields approaches and dimensions that comprise future directions in economic theory research and practice The extensive introduction by the editors not only summarizes and reviews the implications of the contributions presented in the volume but also examines how scientific progress takes place with special reference to economics and finance Finding Your Social Science Project John Gerring, Jason Seawright, 2022-10-13 A practical guide to finding your research topic applicable to all fields of social science Finance & Development, December 2010 International Monetary Fund. External Relations Dept., 2010-12-01 This issue of F D looks at the growing role of emerging markets Analysis by the IMF's Ayhan Kose and Eswar Prasad professor of trade policy at Cornell University argues that their economic ascendance will enable emerging markets such as Brazil China India and Russia to play a more significant part in global economic governance and take on more responsibility for economic and financial stability And Vivek Arora and Athanasios Vamvakidis measure how China's economy is increasingly affecting the rest of the world not just its neighbors and main trading partners In addition F D examines a variety of topics that are particularly relevant as the world struggles to shake off the crisis Alan Blinder and Mark Zandi look at the positive effects of stimulus in the United States Without it they say the United States would still be in recession IMF researchers look at how countries can get debt under control and what happens when government debt is downgraded Other articles examine the human costs of unemployment how inequality can lead over time to financial crisis and what changes in the way banks do business could mean for the financial system Two articles look at Islamic banking which was put to the test during the global crisis and proved its mettle and in Faces of the Crisis Revisited we continue to track how the recession affected several individuals around the world This issue of F D profiles Princeton economic theorist Avinash Dixit in the regular People in Economics feature and Back to Basics looks at externalities

Economists' Lives E. Roy Weintraub, Evelyn L. Forget, 2007 This collection of essays a supplement to History of Political Economy brings together prominent scholars from economics sociology literature and history to examine the role of biography and autobiography in the history of economics The first of its kind this volume looks at the relevance of first person accounts to narrative histories of economics The essays consider both the potential and the limits of life writing which has traditionally been used sparingly by historians of economics and examine types of biographies the relationship between autobiography and identity and the writing of biography Contributors to this collection question whether biography is essential to understanding the history of economic ideas and consider how autobiographical materials should be read and interpreted by historians Articles consider the treatment of autobiographical materials such as conversations and testimonies the construction of heroes and villains the relationship between scientific biography and literary biography and concerns related to living subjects Several essays address the role of biography and autobiography in the study of economists such as F A Hayek Harry Johnson Alfred Marshall John Maynard Keynes Oskar Morgenstern and François Quesnay concluding with several accounts of the interconnection of the historians projects with their own autobiographies All 2007 subscribers to History of Political Economy will receive a copy of Economists Lives Biography and Autobiography in the History of Economics as part of their subscription Contributors Roger E Backhouse Bruce Caldwell Louis Charles William Coleman Robert W Dimand Paul John Eakin Ross B Emmett Evelyn L Forget Craufurd D Goodwin Peter Groenewegen Malachi Haim Hacohen Jan Otmar Hesse Patricia Laurence Frederic S Lee Robert Leonard Tiago Mata D E Moggridge Jeremy D Popkin Mike Reay Christine Th r E Roy Weintraub

Vane, 1999 The authors provide an introductory essay outlining the development of macroeconomics since the 1930s and the themes occur and re occur in the following interviews with some of the principal agenda setters of macroeconomic research

The Lost Art of Economics David C. Colander, 2001 Economics is the study of a complex system in which simple laws are not always forthcoming That complexity mandates three branches of the profession positive normative and the art of economics The economics profession has focused on one of these positive economics and in doing so has lost the art of economics In a series of provocative essays the author argues that most of what economists do is applied policy which belongs in the art of economics not in normative or positive economics The essays explore the forces in academic institutions that have led economics to its current position as well as the implications of the lost art for the economics profession and its future In the end the author is positive about the future of the profession and predicts that in 2050 it will no longer be as Solow suggested it currently is the overeducated in pursuit of the unknowable Instead it will be the appropriately educated in search of the knowable The essays are written in a highly accessible style and can be enjoyed by most non economists as well as by those economists who don't take themselves too seriously It can be usefully read by all economists even those who do take themselves too seriously The American Economist, 1999 Papers and Proceedings of the Annual Meeting

American Economic Association, 1999 The Effortless Economy of Science? Philip Mirowski, 2004 A leading scholar of the history and philosophy of economic thought Philip Mirowski argues that there has been a top to bottom transformation in how scientific research is organized and funded in Western countries over the past two decades and that these changes necessitate a reexamination of the ways that science and economics interact Mirowski insists on the need to bring together the insights of economics science studies and the philosophy of science in order to understand how and why particular research programs get stabilized through interdisciplinary appropriation controlled attributions of error and funding restrictions Mirowski contends that neoclassical economists have persistently presumed and advanced an effortless economy of science a misleading model of a self sufficient and conceptually self referential social structure that transcends market operations in pursuit of absolute truth In the stunning essays collected here he presents a radical critique of the ways that neoclassical economics is used to support explain and legitimate the current social practices underlying the funding and selection of successful science projects He questions a host of theories including the portraits of science put forth by Karl Popper Michael Polanyi and Thomas Kuhn Among the many topics he examines are the social stabilization of quantitative measurement the repressed history of econometrics and the social construction of the laws of supply and demand and their putative opposite the gift economy In The Effortless Economy of Science Mirowski moves beyond grand abstractions about science truth and democracy in order to begin to talk about the way science is lived and practiced today The Politics of Economics and Social Justice David M. Gordon, 1998 David Gordon was a pioneer in the burgeoning field of institutional growth economics introducing the concept of a social structure of accumulation and richly illustrating its usefulness with both econometric and historical studies Gordon also helped to develop the theory of segmented labor markets and contributed to the econometric and historical analysis of their evolution This authoritative collection of his most influential works selected and introduced by his two closest collaborators embraces the full range of his lifelong scholarly endeavor to deploy modern economic reasoning in the cause of social justice The work opens with an introduction and overview of David Gordon's career and published work This is followed by his major essays on a great variety of topics including the economics of crime urban history wage stagnation in the US economy the organization of work the top heavy modern corporation the social and institutional determinants of productivity growth and the globalization of economic life as well as labor market segmentation and the social structure of accumulation Gordon's synthesis of questions of neo Marxian and more conventional provenance and his integration of historical and econometric methods in providing answers makes Economics and Social Justice a unique and intellectually rewarding analysis of contemporary capitalism
