Alongside globalisation urbanisation new technology climate change and global pandemics ageing is transforming life in the twenty first century. Through the eyes of a young sociology student and her multigenerational family this book sets out a new sociological framework to interpret ageing societies. It explores how the New Old the baby boomer generation might be mobilised as an agency of social change in transforming later life. It proposes this generation as the co architects of a new intergenerational social contract for the era ahead rather than as the recipients of a post war twentieth century social contract that society can no longer support. Taking Britain as a case study and societies across the world as examples Slattery explores emerging revolutions in work and retirement potential crises in pensions healthcare and housing as well as transformations in family life and in our attitudes to sex and death in later life. This book provides a clear overview of the sociology of ageing.
