Why Study Microbiology?
Microbiology is a very important field of study. It helps us understand the world around us and how it works. It also helps us to develop new medicines and technologies. Microbiology is a very exciting and challenging field of study.

Koch's and Microbiology

1890 Robert Koch, a German physician and microbiologist, was the first to prove that bacteria cause disease. He is known as the "father of bacteriology".

1890 Koch's Postulates are a set of four criteria that must be met to prove that a specific microorganism causes a specific disease. They are: 1. The microorganism must be found in all cases of the disease. 2. The microorganism must be isolated from the diseased host. 3. The isolated microorganism must be grown in pure culture. 4. The pure culture must cause the disease when inoculated into a healthy host.

New Prokaryotes and Eukaryotes

PROKARYOTES
Prokaryotes are single-celled organisms that lack a nucleus and other membrane-bound organelles. They are the simplest and most ancient forms of life. Examples include bacteria and archaea.

EUKARYOTES
Eukaryotes are organisms whose cells have a nucleus and other membrane-bound organelles. They are more complex than prokaryotes and include all plants, animals, and fungi.

The Cell Theory

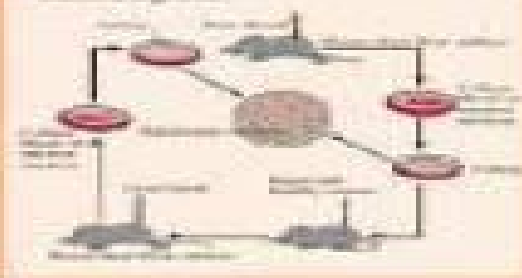

The cell theory is a fundamental principle of biology. It states that all living organisms are made of cells, and that cells are the basic units of life. The theory was developed by Matthias Schleiden and Rudolf Virchow in the 19th century.

1. All living organisms are made of cells.
2. The cell is the basic unit of life.
3. New cells are formed from pre-existing cells.

Robert Hooke's Micrographia

Robert Hooke's Micrographia is a book that describes his observations of the microscopic world. It was the first book to show drawings of cells, and it is considered one of the most important works in the history of biology.

1. Hooke observed that all living organisms are made of cells.
2. He discovered that cells are the basic units of life.
3. He showed that new cells are formed from pre-existing cells.
