thematic publications written by experienced youth workers for use in training and study sessions produced under the Partnership Agreement on European Youth Worker Training run by the Council of Europe and the European Communities Commission. It focuses on issues of youth inclusion, participation and access, including definitions, barriers to youth participation, non-formal education methods compared to formal education and vocational training, inclusive youth work in practice, including building trust and self-esteem, peer education, conflict management and a contractual approach, and practical exercises relating to these issues. More Novels and Plays Albert B. Somers, Janet E. Worthington, 2000-05-15

Another information-packed time-saving tool for teachers from the authors of Novels and Plays, this book contains 30 teaching guides for some of the best literature commonly taught in grades 6-12. With initiating activities, chapter-by-chapter discussion questions, writing assignments and interdisciplinary extensions, these are complete lesson plans. For each book, there is also a brief plot summary, a critique, lists of themes and literary concepts for teaching suggestions for outside reading and vocabulary study, and lists of available print and electronic media resources. Multimedia Learning Stations Jen Spisak, 2015-09-28

Learn how to use rotating multimedia learning stations employing databases, websites, education apps, videos, audio, podcasts, online games, books, and more to build a strong collaborative library program that helps you strengthen student understanding of the research process. Libraries across America are losing funding and suffering from cuts in positions and programs. The process presented here will help you increase library use and prove that school libraries and librarians are a necessity. Written for middle and secondary school librarians, the book provides a guide to using standards-based and content-focused learning stations in the library to facilitate instruction and strengthen students' research skills. You'll learn what multimedia stations are, why they should be used, and how to use them to enhance and extend direct instruction. Plus, the book breaks down the steps for building sets of stations and shows you how to organize and implement them for maximum impact. In addition to describing the hows, the book provides sound arguments for why multimedia learning stations work. The method ensures that students gain continued practice with resources and build the skills and dispositions you want them to have. It also increases the amount of collaboration you'll have with teachers and enhances your interactions with and influence on your students. Teacher and student testimonials are interspersed throughout the book, and appendices offer you specific examples from which to draw. Governing Knowledge Commons Brett M. Frischmann, Michael J. Madison, Katherine Jo Strandburg, 2014

Knowledge commons describes the institutionalized community governance of the sharing and, in some cases, creation of information, science, knowledge, data, and other types of intellectual and cultural resources. It is the subject of enormous recent interest and enthusiasm with respect to policymaking about innovation, creative production, and intellectual property. Taking that enthusiasm as its starting point, Governing Knowledge Commons argues that policymaking should be based on evidence and a deeper understanding of what makes commons institutions work. It offers a systematic way to study knowledge commons, borrowing and building on Elinor Ostrom's Nobel Prize-winning research on natural resource commons It proposes a framework for studying knowledge commons that is adapted to the unique attributes of knowledge and information describing the framework in detail and explaining how to put it into context both with respect to commons research and with respect to innovation and information policy Eleven detailed case studies apply and discuss the framework exploring knowledge commons across a wide variety of scientific and cultural domains
