New Economic Analysis Infrastructure Investment:

A New Economic Analysis of Infrastructure Investment, 2012 A New Economic Analysis of Infrastructure Investment Council of Economic Advisers (U.S.), 2012 In this report we begin by reviewing factors that should influence investment in infrastructure We review the economic literature regarding returns to infrastructure investment Next we consider the specific condition of our economy and labor market including the availability of workers with the requisite skills which suggest that now is a particularly favorable time to initiate these investments Then we analyze the benefits derived by American families and companies from well functioning infrastructure systems and the costs associated with poor infrastructure systems Finally we review public and business sentiment regarding infrastructure investment Page 6 New Economic Analysis of Infrastructure Investment Timothy F. Geithner, 2012-05-06 President Obama's FY 2013 Budget proposes a bold plan to renew and expand America's infrastructure The plan includes a 50 billion up front investment connected to a 476 billion six year reauthorization of the surface transportation program and the creation of a National Infrastructure Bank In support of this commitment the Department of the Treasury with the Council of Economic Advisers has updated their analysis of the economic effects of infrastructure investment The new data and analyses confirm and strengthen their finding that now is an ideal time to increase our investment in infrastructure Charts and tables This is a print on demand edition of an important hard to find report Economic Analysis and Infrastructure Investment Edward L. Glaeser, James M. Poterba, 2021-11-11 Policy makers often call for expanding public spending on infrastructure which includes a broad range of investments from roads and bridges to digital networks that will expand access to high speed broadband Some point to near term macro economic benefits and job creation others focus on long term effects on productivity and economic growth This volume explores the links between infrastructure spending and economic outcomes as well as key economic issues in the funding and management of infrastructure projects It draws together research studies that describe the short run stimulus effects of infrastructure spending develop new estimates of the stock of U S infrastructure capital and explore the incentive aspects of public private partnerships PPPs A salient issue is the treatment of risk in evaluating publicly funded infrastructure projects and in connection with PPPs The goal of the volume is to provide a reference for researchers seeking to expand research on infrastructure issues and for policy makers tasked with determining the appropriate level of infrastructure spending Economic Analysis of Infrastructure Investment Timothy F. Geithner, 2011 A New Economic Analysis of Infrastructure Investment U. S. Department of the Treasury, 2015-12-10 President Obama's FY 2013 Budget proposes a bold plan to renew and expand America's infrastructure The plan includes a 50 billion up front investment connected to a 476 billion six year reauthorization of the surface transportation program and the creation of a National Infrastructure Bank In support of this commitment the Department of the Treasury with the Council of Economic Advisers has updated our analysis of the economic effects of infrastructure investment The new data and analyses confirm and strengthen our finding that now is an ideal time to increase our investment in infrastructure for the following four key reasons Well designed infrastructure investments have long term economic benefits and create jobs in the short run This economic activity and job creation is especially timely as there is currently a high level of underutilized resources that can be used to improve and expand our infrastructure Middle class Americans would benefit disproportionately from this investment through both the creation of middle class jobs and by lowering transportation costs for American households and There is strong demand by the public and businesses for additional transportation infrastructure capacity
