Special Topics in Policing James F. Albrecht, Garth den Heyer,2026-01-01 This book provides a critical analysis of five central areas in modern policing crime control community policing volunteers in policing officer safety and wellness and contemporary issues It begins with an examination of the evolution of crime control strategies focusing on how technology and organizational tactics have shaped efforts to reduce crime Global case studies including perspectives from Central and Eastern Europe and the New York Police Department offer practical insights into how crime control has adapted in the 21st century. These chapters blend theoretical perspectives with real world experiences highlighting both challenges and successes in maintaining public safety. The book explores the shifting dynamics of community policing. Once considered the cornerstone of police work, this approach now faces budget cuts and recruitment challenges that have pushed departments toward new strategies including the use of social media and digital platforms to sustain public outreach. The discussion extends to the role of volunteers in policing, drawing on case studies from Asia and Hungary to identify best practices for enhancing community engagement and addressing organizational deficits through volunteer involvement. It also examines officer wellness and safety with particular emphasis on mental health challenges such as post traumatic stress and the growing physical risks officers face on the job. The final chapters address pressing contemporary issues including racial bias, non consensual policing in the UK and drug decriminalization efforts in Canada, offering a nuanced analysis of their implications for policing and the wider criminal justice system. Through research and policy analysis, this book serves as an essential resource for scholars, practitioners and policymakers striving to strengthen both the effectiveness of law enforcement and public trust in the institution of policing.

, 2003      The Science and Practice of Wellness Rakesh Jain, Saundra Jain, 2020-01-14 A dynamic approach to mental health and wellness ready for any clinician to implement. Wellness is rapidly becoming an issue of great importance in clinical practice. Wellness centric clinicians look to improve various traits known to be beneficial to patients traits such as happiness, enthusiasm, resilience and optimism referred to as the HERO traits. All of these not only improve global mental wellness but also offer resilience against stress, depression and anxiety. Wellness centric interventions augment both psychopharmacology and traditional psychotherapies such as CBT. Rakesh and Saundra Jain start with an in depth review of the scientific literature and a practical introduction on applying wellness interventions in various clinical settings. Additionally, they offer advice on such beneficial practices as exercise, mindfulness, optimized nutrition, optimized sleep, enhanced socialization and positive psychology enhancement. A robust resource section offers access to wellness centric scales and forms developed by the authors.

Queer Campus Climate Benjamin Arnberg, 2020-02-21 Queer Campus Climate An Ethnographic Fantasia is a visceral and provocative account of the lives of ten queer college men living in the Deep South. The book serves many goals. It is an emancipatory research document told in the raucous, fiery voices of these queer men whose narratives are presented free from the sanitizing impulses of traditional scholarship. It is a manifesto on postqualitative paradigms applied to a queer subject. It is a public history of the life and times of queers subjects living under an alt right political assault. And it is an analysis of how a hostile campus climate impacts psychosocial development of marginalized students. Blurring the line between literature and research, Queer Campus Climate An Ethnographic Fantasia contains a cast of characters including a bear, a twink and three drag queens who dish on sex, gender, performance, mental wellness, relationships, harassment, addiction, professional development and politics Their stories are told against a musical backdrop that includes selections from Puccini to Frank Ocean which provides a multisensory experience unlike anything else in sociological research
