Excerpt from A New Way to Solve Old Problems Those who attempt to put psychology and pedagogy into actual school practice face an appalling task It demands hours and hours of prayer weeks and weeks of study and years and years of experimentation When this psychology and pedagogy are religious the task is more than appalling it is overwhelming An aim in theory is one thing to translate it into terms of child consciousness is quite another content on paper is a wholly different matter from content in the form of ideas and feelings the method stated in the form of principles is a total stranger to the same rules or laws as expressed in the form of spiritual reactions Any thoughtful person who has read a hundred of the best books on religious education may have an illuminating and shocking experience by visiting or teaching week after week in any average Sunday school with his critical attention and judgment at their best This is the precise experience that a rational reformer of the Sunday school must have at least in the beginning of his endeavors This chapter attempts to sketch such an experience About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Congressional Record United States.
