Spence, Maureen A. Lewis, 2009 This book contains a series of state of the art essays on topics related to health and growth. Research Anthology on Rehabilitation Practices and Therapy Management Association, Information Resources, 2020-08-21 The availability of practical applications, techniques and case studies by international therapists is limited despite expansions to the fields of clinical psychology, rehabilitation and counseling. Research Anthology on Rehabilitation Practices and Therapy is a vital reference source that examines the latest scholarly material on trends and techniques in counseling and therapy and provides innovative insights into contemporary and future issues within the field. Highlighting a range of topics such as psychotherapy, anger management and psychodynamics, this multi-volume book is ideally designed for mental health professionals, counselors, therapists, clinical psychologists, sociologists, social workers, researchers, students and social science academicians seeking coverage on significant advances in rehabilitation and therapy.

Ageing, Learning and Development Tania Zittoun, Fabienne Gfeller, 2026-01-07 This book examines the modalities of learning and development of older persons. It calls upon theoretical perspectives that conceptualise people both in their unicity and in their cultural and historical inscriptions, here mainly sociocultural psychology and psychoanalysis. With the extension of life expectancy, what is colloquially called old age designates a period that usually goes from retirement age around 65 until 70-85 or over 100 years of age. The diversity and length of trajectories of ageing mean that we cannot consider the old person in an isolated, static and undifferentiated way. This book accounts for the fact that people growing older keep developing in their unique manner in their social, cultural, material and symbolic environment, itself changing. This book is original as it brings together two perspectives that draw from both French and Anglo-Saxon tradition and are usually considered separately. This combination proves fruitful in avoiding both social and individual reductionism and to account for the complexity of the aging process. The approach adopted in this book is quite new in this field and by bringing groundbreaking theoretical contributions, it explores new methodological strategies and indicates possible routes for applied research and interventions. This book is intended for researchers working in the field of ageing, scholars, healthcare professionals, policy makers and social workers.
