Ministry of Defence Great Britain. National Audit Office, 2008 In 2000 the Ministry of Defence the Department began to develop plans to replace existing diverse systems with a single information infrastructure to enable better communication to promote more efficient ways of working and to obtain better value for money In March 2005 the Department let a contract with ATLAS a consortium with EDS as the prime contractor for the installation and management of a new infrastructure over 10 years The Defence Information Infrastructure Programme DII will eventually incorporate 150 000 terminals for 300 000 users at over 2 000 defence sites including on ships and deployed operations The parts of the Programme which the Department has on contract are estimated to cost 4 9 billion As with other major IT programmes DII is intrinsically complex and challenging In this case the Programme s size and demanding requirements for security and deployment to theatres of military operations are particularly exacting It is also challenging to manage in terms of the complex interconnection with other business change programmes and the level of churn in the Department s business and has had to be introduced into a diverse and in places poor quality estate The Programme reports that it has already achieved or enabled benefits to date of 916 million But the Programme s implementation difficulties have led to key elements of it running 18 months late This delay has led to postponement of the achievement of some benefits particularly the savings associated with switching off legacy systems and the longer term benefits from improved ways of working The National Audit Office makes recommendations on preparation implementation service management and costs in world politics since the end of the Cold War To do so it puts forward a unique cross regional comparison of how the major European powers France Germany and the United Kingdom have confronted Chinese assertiveness both in the Asia Pacific and in Europe Firstly it analyses their response to China s increasingly muscular regional posture in the Asia Pacific through the development of diplomatic and security initiatives with partners in the region Secondly it delineates how they have confronted China s inroads into Europe looking at the measures that they have taken to tackle Chinese investments in and supply of technologies in strategic sectors such as critical national infrastructures dual use technologies and in the digital domain including Huawei s 5G networks A longstanding assumption in the IR literature has been that European foreign policies toward the People s Republic of China have been driven by a na ve and self interested focus on the economic opportunities presented by such a vast market overlooking security considerations This book challenges such common belief through a detailed examination of the policies of France Germany and the United Kingdom from 1989 to the present Its central argument is that whereas this assessment aptly characterized the first two post Cold War decades Beijing s growing assertiveness after 2009 caused the three major European powers to awaken to China s rise In the 2010s heightened threat perceptions of China coupled with increasingly competitive bilateral economic relations with the PRC have gradually and cumulatively caused the hardening of their policy goals which in turn translated into the formulation of new policy instruments to confront such a challenge To substantiate this argument the book relies on a large body of previously undisclosed primary sources including 223 interviews conducted with senior officials in Europe Berlin Brussels London Paris in the United States Washington DC and in Asia Beijing Shanghai New Delhi Seoul declassified archival documents from France the UK and Germany leaked US diplomatic cables and new data on European naval deployments UK Defence Statistics Great Britain.
