Portable Document Format, or PDF for short, is one of the most ubiquitous file formats that is universally adopted across platforms. A PDF created on a Windows PC, will be easily opened and even edited on a Mac, for example. That alone makes it one of the most used and most convenient file formats.

On Mac, you can easily create a PDF without the need of additional software, something I personally use quite often. While the process is quick and simple, it lacks customization options, specifically about the quality, and by extension the file size, of the PDF generated.

In those cases, you might end up with a very large PDF file weighing several MB. Of course, the better the quality of the document, the heavier the file will end up being.

There are instances where quality matters more than file size, but in most occasions, you'll probably want to end up with a smaller file size which will make it easier to email, for example. Thankfully, there is a relatively unknown feature on your Mac that allows you to to take an existing PDF file and compress it to reduce its size.

In this tutorial, I will show you how to compress and reduce the file size of a PDF on a Mac by using the Preview app.

How to compress a PDF on Mac

For this tutorial, I downloaded a sample PDF that weighs in at 105 MB. This is a pretty large file that many email services wouldn't even allow you to send to someone. We'll see how much the file size reduction process helps at the end of the process.

1) On your Mac, double-click on the PDF file you want to compress to open it. By default, it should open with Preview. If not, make sure you do open that file with Preview.

2) In the menu bar, click on File, then click on Export...

3) Click on the Quartz Filter dropdown menu.
