Spiritualism. Three Essays Alfred Russel Wallace, 2019-07-10 The nineteenth century British naturalist Alfred Russel Wallace was a major influence on Darwin's theory of natural selection. He was later moved by a variety of personal experiences to examine the concept of spirituality but his exploration into the potential for compatibility between spiritualism and natural selection alienated him from the scientific community. The three controversial essays in this 1875 book attempt to reinforce his beliefs and validate his claims. The first, written in 1871 and read before The Dialectic Society, reconsiders the credibility or incredibility of miracles. The second, 'The Scientific Aspect of the Supernatural', had been published in a secularist periodical several years earlier, and 'A Defence of Modern Spiritualism' appeared in the Fortnightly Review shortly before this book was published. Wallace's book takes the modern reader to the heart of the raging debates engendered by Darwin, many of which continue over a century later.      On Miracles and Modern Spiritualism; Three Essays Alfred Russel Wallace, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1875 edition. Excerpt: A DEFENCE OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM reprinted With Notes And Additions From The Fortnightly Review. It is with great diffidence but under an imperative sense of duty that the present writer accepts the opportunity afforded him of submitting to the readers of the Fortnightly Review some general account of a wide spread movement which though for the most part treated with ridicule or contempt he believes to embody truths of the most vital importance to human progress. The subject to be treated is of such vast extent the evidence concerning it is so varied and so extraordinary the prejudices that surround it are so inveterate that it is not possible to do it justice without entering into considerable detail. The reader who ventures on the perusal of the succeeding pages may therefore have his patience tried but if he is able to throw aside his preconceived ideas of what is possible and what is impossible and in the acceptance or rejection of what is submitted to him will carefully weigh. The following are the more important works which have been used in the preparation of this article. Judge Edmond's Spiritual Tracts New York 1858 1860 Robert Dale Owen's Footfalls on the Boundary of Another World Triebner and Co 1861 E. Hardinge's Modern American Spiritualism New York 1870 Robert Dale Owen's Debatable Land between this World and the Next Triebner and Co 1871 Report on Spiritualism of the Committee of the London Dialectical Society Longmans and Co 1871 Year Book of Spiritualism Boston and London 1871 Hudson Tuttle's Arcana of Spiritualism Boston 1871 The Spiritual

Miracles and Modern Spiritualism Alfred Russel Wallace, 2016-07-07 From the introductory AN ANSWER TO THE ARGUMENTS OF HUME LECKY AND OTHERS AGAINST MIRACLES A Paper Read Before The Dialectical Society in 1871 It is now generally admitted that those opinions and beliefs in which men have been educated generation after generation and which have thus come to form part of their mental nature are especially liable to be erroneous because they keep alive and perpetuate the ideas and prejudices of a bygone and less enlightened age It is therefore in the interest of truth that every doctrine or belief however well established or sacred they may appear to be should at certain intervals be challenged to arm themselves with such facts and reasonings as they possess to meet their opponents in the open field of controversy and do battle for their right to live Nor can any exemption be claimed in favour of those beliefs which are the product of modern civilisation and which have for several generations been held unquestioned by the great mass of the educated community for the prejudice in their favour will be proportionately great and as was the case with the doctrines of Aristotle and the dogmas of the schoolmen they may live on by mere weight of authority and force of habit long after they have been shown to be opposed alike to fact and to reason There have been times when popular beliefs were defended by the terrors of the law and when the sceptic could only attack them at the peril of his life Now we all admit that truth can take care of itself and that only error needs protection But there is another mode of defence which equally implies a claim to certain and absolute truth and which is therefore equally unworthy and unphilosophical that of ridicule and misrepresentation of our opponents or a contemptuous refusal to discuss the question at all This method is used among us even now for there is one belief or rather disbelief whose advocates claim more than papal infallibility by refusing to examine the evidence brought against it and by alleging general arguments which have been in use for two centuries to prove that it cannot be erroneous The belief to which I allude is that all alleged miracles are false that what is commonly understood by the term supernatural does not exist or if it does is incapable of proof by any amount of human testimony that all the phenomena we can have cognisance of depend on ascertainable physical laws and that no other intelligent beings than man and the inferior animals can or do act upon our material world These views have been now held almost unquestioned for many generations they are inculcated as an essential part of a liberal education they are popular and are held to be one of the indications of our intellectual advancement and they have become so much a part of our mental nature that all facts and arguments brought against them are either ignored as unworthy of serious consideration or listened to with undisguised contempt Now this frame of mind is certainly not one favourable to the discovery of truth and strikingly resembles that by which in former ages systems of error have been fostered and maintained The time has therefore come when it must be called upon to justify itself
