Meeting The Challenge Of Parenting In The West An Islamic Perspective:

Meeting the Challenge of Parenting in the West Ekram Beshir, Mohamed Rida Beshir, 1998 As a minority group in North America Muslims are preoccupied with how to preserve their Islamic identity in their children With schools playing no role in instilling ethical norms and values in children it becomes the responsibility of the family to undertake that role The book is an excellent guide on how to take on that role in a holistic Islamic tarbiyyah

Parent-Child Relations: A Guide to Raising Children (Revised Edition) Hisham Altalib ,AbdulHamid Ahmad AbuSulayman ,Omar Hisham Altalib ,2024-03-11 Modern families face challenges unprecedented in human history The time attention and vigilance required of parents is exhausting and consuming family life Parents are required to balance complex schedules be technology aware social media informed constantly monitor children s screen time and media communication cope with academic problems shield them from the dangers of immorality find inventive ways to overcome their boredom organize extracurricular activities and handle everything within financially constrained circumstances that increasingly require both to be working Little wonder that anxiety is on the rise and parents are increasingly fearing for their children s future The authors in this book attempt to address parents concerns and equip them with the confidence and tools necessary to work towards understanding and addressing the real needs of both themselves and their children to nurture the child s character self confidence life skills moral boundaries spiritual development and much more There is no quick fix Myths are debunked and practical tips offered throughout which can be implemented immediately with fun activities outlined at the end of each chapter with the aim of improving parent child relationships through bonding love patience openness respect and communication

The Psychodynamics of First Generation Arab-American Muslim Women Amal Hassoun Nardi, 2007-05-17 This causal comparative study explores the acculturation and its affects on the psychodynamics of first generation Arab American Muslim women born and raised in the United States Torn between the Old World customs of their parents and modern American traditions first generation Arab American Muslim women face a major identity challenge in trying to balance their two worlds Developmental psychologist E H Erikson 1970 proposed a theory of psychosocial development based on six basic concepts stages of development developmental task psychosocial crisis the central process for resolving the psychosocial crisis the radius of significant relationship and coping behaviors Coupled with Erikson s theory is Young Yun Kim s theory of acculturation 1977 which posits that acculturation is a phenomenon when immigrants eventually come to understand the norms and values of their host society and that media of the host society provided a catalyst for the acculturation process Suinn Rickard Figueroa Lew Vigil 1987 developed the Suinn Lew Asian Self Identity Acculturation Scale SL ASIA with 26 questions designed to measure acculturation level The author adjusted the SL ASIA to a more Arab focused version of the scale called the ASL ASIA A pilot study was conducted to insure reliability and validity The Arab Focused Suinn Lew Asian Self Identity Acculturation Scale ASLASIA was used to measure the levels of acculturation of immigrant Arab Muslim mothers and the acculturation levels of their first generation Arab American Muslim daughters A second tool used was the Mother Adult Daughter MAD Questionnaire Developed by Rastogi 1995 the twenty five question MAD measures the adult daughter s perception of connectedness interdependence and trust in hierarchy in her relationship with her mother The last instrument used in this study was the Adult Attachment Inventory AAI Created by Main et al 1984 the AAI is used to assess the attachment related issues of the mother s parenting styles The AAI is a structured hour long semi clinical interview focusing on early experiences and their effects Several studies have shown that a mother s attachment level affects the attachment level of her daughter Therefore this study focuses on the question Does the level of acculturation of an immigrant Arab Muslim mother compare with the level of acculturation of her first generation Arab American Muslim daughter The research design of this study was based on an extensive literature review on the topics of Erikson s psychosocial theory 1970 Kim s acculturation theory 1977 Arab Muslim cultural perspective and Islamic texts The premise of this study was that Arab Muslim mothers levels of acculturation will affect the levels of acculturation of their first generation Arab American Muslim daughters It was also expected that the level of maternal cultural identification would affect the acculturation level of the first generation Arab American Muslim daughter Finally it is anticipated that the first generation Arab American Muslim daughter s level of acculturation would affect her attachment level to her immigrant Arab Muslim mother Findings appeared to support the hypothesis that the level of acculturation of the immigrant Arab Muslim mother is positively correlated with the level of acculturation of her first generation Arab American Muslim daughter A second hypothesis that the level of maternal cultural identification would affect the acculturation level of her first generation Arab American Muslim daughter was not supported Also results did not support the third hypothesis that the acculturation level of first generation Arab American Muslim daughters would affect her attachment level with her immigrant Arab Muslim mother The aim of future research is to aide therapists in becoming more culturally sensitive to their patients as well as to gain deeper understanding of the affects of acculturation I      Three Worlds of Collective Human Experience: Individual Life, Social Change, and Human Evolution Victor N. Shaw, 2018-08-22 This book explores three worlds shared by the humans in their collective experiences It identifies and explores the world of commonsense the world of religion and the world of science as three essential dimensions of human experience The book helps understand that humans can gain comfort and pleasure in commonsense achieve meaning and purpose from religion and attain truth and rationality through science It actively applies theories to and develops theoretical explanations from different domains or situations of human existence This book is of interest to theorists researchers instructors and students across major academic disciplines in the humanities and social sciences      Family Makeovers Irfan Alli, 2013-10-06 FAMILY MAKEOVERS Is a practical and spiritual guide to help parents cope with today s challenges Each letter of the alphabet is used as a title for a topic related to parenting For example A is for Accountability B is for Basics C is for Communication D is for Discipline etc Under each letter are practical and spiritual suggestions that parents can adapt to the needs of their family By the end of the book the ideas if implemented come together to lay out a road map to help you improve repair and makeover your family

Women, Islam and Current Issues in Development Jade'. Mohammed,2009 Muslim Women Activists in North America Katherine Bullock,2005-09 In the eyes of many Westerners Muslim women are hidden behind a veil of negative stereotypes that portray them as either oppressed subservient wives and daughters or more recently as potential terrorists Yet many Muslim women defy these stereotypes by taking active roles in their families and communities and working to create a more just society This book introduces eighteen Muslim women activists from the United States and Canada who have worked in fields from social services to marital counseling to political advocacy in order to further social justice within the Muslim community and in the greater North American society Each of the activists has written an autobiographical narrative in which she discusses such issues as her personal motivation for doing activism work her views on the relationship between Islam and women s activism and the challenges she has faced and overcome such as patriarchal cultural barriers within the Muslim community or racism and discrimination within the larger society The women activists are a heterogeneous group including North American converts to Islam Muslim immigrants to the United States and Canada and the daughters of immigrants Young women at the beginning of their activist lives as well as older women who have achieved regional or national prominence are included Katherine Bullock s introduction highlights the contributions to society that Muslim women have made since the time of the Prophet Muhammad and sounds a call for contemporary Muslim women to become equal partners in creating and maintaining a just society within and beyond the Muslim community
