Celebrate Or Commemorate? A Material Purchase Advantage When Honoring Special Life Events Joseph K.

Goodman, Selin A. Malkoc, Brittney Stephenson, 2018 Previous theories have suggested that consumers will be happier if they spend their money on experiences such as travel as opposed to material possessions such as automobiles We test this experience recommendation and show that it may be misleading in its general form Valence of the outcome significantly moderates differences in respondents' reported retrospective happiness with material versus experiential purchases For purchases that turned out positively experiential purchases lead to more happiness than do material purchases as the experience recommendation suggests However for purchases that turned out negatively experiences have no benefit over and for some types of consumers induce significantly less happiness than material possessions We provide evidence that this purchase type by valence interaction is driven by the fact that consumers adapt more slowly to experiential purchases than to material purchases leading to both greater happiness and greater unhappiness for experiential purchases
