

Case Study Total Parenteral Nutrition (video case study) And Answers

A nurse is caring for a client who is receiving total parenteral nutrition (TPN). Which of the following actions should the nurse take? - ANSWER Remove the TPN solution from the refrigerator 1 hr prior to infusion.

Rationale: the nurse should remove the TPN solution from the refrigerator 1 hour prior to administration because the TPN should reach room temperature before it is infused.

The nurse is providing discharge teaching to the caregiver of a client who is malnourished and will be receiving partial parenteral nutrition (PPN) at home via a peripherally inserted central catheter (PICC). Which of the following instructions should the nurse include? - ANSWER Place the feeding equipment out of the client's view when it is not in use.

Rationale: The nurse should advise the caregiver to always consider the psychosocial characteristics of this type of nutrition a therapy; therefore, the caregiver should place the feeding equipment out of the client's view when it is not in use.

A nurse is preparing to hang a new bag of total parenteral nutrition (TPN) for a client and discovers that it has not arrived from the pharmacy. Which of the following available solutions should the nurse infuse until the client's TPN arrives? - ANSWER Dextrose 10% in water

Rationale: the nurse should infuse dextrose 10% or 20% in water if the client's TPN solution is temporarily unavailable. Dextrose 10% in water is a hypertonic solution and contains 340 calories per liter. Abruptly stopping TPN can cause hypoglycemia therefore infusing dextrose 10% in water temporarily at the same rate as the TPN can prevent this adverse effect.

A nurse is planning to administer total parenteral nutrition (TPN) with 10% dextrose to a newly-admitted client. Which of the following actions should the nurse plan to take? - ANSWER Change the client's IV catheter tubing every 24 hours.

Rationale: The nurse should change the client's IV tubing every 24 hours to protect the client from bacterial and fungal growth, which can cause infections.
