Measuring Scholarly Impact Ying Ding, Ronald Rousseau, Dietmar Wolfram, 2014-11-06 This book is an authoritative handbook of current topics technologies and methodological approaches that may be used for the study of scholarly impact. The included methods cover a range of fields such as statistical sciences scientific visualization network analysis text mining and information retrieval. The techniques and tools enable researchers to investigate metric phenomena and to assess scholarly impact in new ways. Each chapter offers an introduction to the selected topic and outlines how the topic technology or methodological approach may be applied to metrics related research. Comprehensive and up to date Measuring Scholarly Impact Methods and Practice is designed for researchers and scholars interested in informetrics scientometrics and text mining. The hands on perspective is also beneficial to advanced level students in fields from computer science and statistics to information science.

Science Dynamics and Research Production Nikolay K. Vitanov, 2016-08-01 This book deals with methods to evaluate scientific productivity. In the book statistical methods deterministic and stochastic models and numerous indexes are discussed that will help the reader to understand the nonlinear science dynamics and to be able to develop or construct systems for appropriate evaluation of research productivity and management of research groups and organizations. The dynamics of science structures and systems is complex and the evaluation of research productivity requires a combination of qualitative and quantitative methods and measures. The book has three parts. The first part is devoted to mathematical models describing the importance of science for economic growth and systems for the evaluation of research organizations of different size. The second part contains descriptions and discussions of numerous indexes for the evaluation of the productivity of researchers and groups of researchers of different size up to the comparison of research productivities of research communities of nations. Part three contains discussions of non Gaussian laws connected to scientific productivity and presents various deterministic and stochastic models of science dynamics and research productivity. The book shows that many famous fat tail distributions as well as many deterministic and stochastic models and processes which are well known from physics theory of extreme events or population dynamics occur also in the description of dynamics of scientific systems and in the description of the characteristics of research productivity. This is not a surprise as scientific systems are nonlinear open and dissipative.
