Murder Perception Many People Killed:

Perceptions of the Holocaust in Europe and Muslim Communities Günther Jikeli, Joëlle

Allouche-Benayoun, 2012-11-08 The way people think about the Holocaust is changing. The particular nature of the transformation depends on people's historical perspectives and how they position themselves and their nation or community vis-à-vis the tragedy. Understandably European Muslims perceive the Holocaust as less central to their history than do other Europeans. Yet while the acknowledgement and commemoration of the horrors of the Holocaust are increasingly important in Europe, Holocaust denial and biased views on the Holocaust are widespread in European Muslim countries of origin. In this book, a number of distinguished scholars and educators of various backgrounds discuss views of the Holocaust. Problematic views are often influenced by a persistent attitude of Holocaust denial which is derived in part from discourses in the Muslim communities in their countries of origin. The essays collected here explore the backgrounds of these perceptions and highlight positive approaches and developments. Many of the contributions were written by people working in the field and reflecting on their experiences. This collection also reveals that problematic views of the Holocaust are not limited to Muslim communities.

The Metaphysics and Ethics of Death James Stacey Taylor, 2013-11 The Metaphysics and Ethics of Death brings together original essays that both address the fundamental questions of the metaphysics of death and explore the relationship between those questions and some of the areas of applied ethics in which they play a central role.

Death Management

Hasan Nafsi, 2013-05-31 This book will help you throw away all the ill paradigms, perceptions and myths about death as far as possible. By reading this book you will finally discover that death just like life is manageable although it is impossible to delay or reschedule by any creatures anywhere. Furthermore death beside life has optimizable excitements in addition to avoidable agonies. In this relation you should learn the 11 steps toward a peaceful death see Chapter 6. As the prerequisite to this you need to recognize your 15 death signs see Chapter 2.

Palliative and End of Life Care in Nursing

Jane Nicol, Brian Nyatanga, 2017-06-05 With the number of people requiring palliative and end of life care steadily increasing it is the responsibility of every nurse regardless of specialism to know how to provide high quality care to this group of people. Yet caring for those nearing the end of life can throw up complex issues including handling bereavement, cultural and ethical issues, delivering care in a wide variety of settings, symptom management and also ensuring your own emotional resilience. This book is specifically designed to equip nursing students and non-specialists with the essential knowledge in relation to the care and management of people nearing the end of life.

Factors Influencing Children and Adolescents' Perceptions and Attitudes Toward Death David W. Adams, Eleanor J. Deveau, 1995 A collection of forty chapters divided into three separate volumes dealing with the question How do we as educators, clinicians, other professionals and parents help children and adolescents deal with threat to their lives, dying, death and bereavement.
