Optimal Bond Trading with Personal Taxes George M. Constantinides, Jonathan E. Ingersoll, 1983 The assumption that bondholders follow either a buy and hold or a continuous realization trading policy rather than the optimal trading policy is at variance with reality and as we demonstrate may seriously bias the estimation of the yield curve and the implied tax bracket of the marginal investor Tax considerations which govern a bondholder's optimal trading policy include the following realization of capital losses short term if possible deferment of the realization of capital gains especially if they are short term changing the holding period status from long term to short term by sale of the bond and repurchase so that future capital losses may be realized short term and raising the basis through sale of the bond and repurchase in order to deduct from ordinary income the amortized premium Because of the interaction of these factors no simple characterization of the optimal trading policy is possible We can say however that it differs substantially from the buy
