Egyptian Ideas Of The Future Life E. A. Wallis Budge, 1899 This book is intended to give the reader an account of the principal ideas and beliefs held by the ancient Egyptians concerning the resurrection and the future life which is derived wholly from native religious works The literature of Egypt which deals with these subjects is large and as was to be expected the product of different periods which taken together cover several thousands of years and it is exceedingly difficult at times to reconcile the statements and beliefs of a writer of one period with those of a writer of another Up to the present no systematic account of the doctrine of the resurrection and of the future life has been discovered and there is no reason for hoping that such a thing will ever be found for the Egyptians do not appear to have thought that it was necessary to write a work of the kind This book sums up all thought beliefs and myths concerning future life in ancient Egypt

The book discusses the minor settlements that dotted the territory of present day Slovenia in the Roman period. This geographically diverse territory was crossed by important lines of communication and divided between three large administrative units of the Roman state Italy and the provinces of Noricum and Upper Pannonia. Twenty six authors wrote contributions on individual settlements in a comprehensive and clear manner roughly following a common concept. The presentation of each settlement opens with its location and name in Antiquity possible habitation traces from prehistory, mentions in ancient literary texts and documents and recovered epigraphic evidence. The next main part offers an overview of the archaeological remains from the Roman period topography, infrastructure, buildings, cemeteries and portable remains of particular significance. This is followed by the information on the status of a settlement, social standing of its inhabitants, their administrative or military functions as well as professional or ethnical background. All is brought together in an outline of the historical development of each settlement.
