

Procedure Codes for RPM in Pain Management

This can make it difficult for patients to access the technology they need to manage their pain effectively. It is important to note that the reimbursement rates for RPM services can vary widely depending on the insurance company and the specific policy. Let's list down procedure codes for RPM in pain management.

Procedure Codes for RPM in Pain Management

As mentioned earlier, most insurance companies have limited number of procedure codes for RPM in pain management. The use of these codes for billing RPM in pain management may vary depending on the specific circumstances of the patient and the healthcare provider. The appropriate CPT code for RPM services may vary depending on the specific details of the service provided, and the payer's policies and guidelines. It is recommended to consult with the payer for specific coding requirements and guidelines. The most commonly used CPT codes for billing RPM services in pain management include:

- CPT code 99091: This code is used for collection and interpretation of physiologic data (e.g., electrocardiogram, blood pressure, weight) digitally stored and/or transmitted by the patient and/or caregiver to the physician or other qualified healthcare professional for review. This code is typically used for remote monitoring of chronic conditions, including pain management.
- CPT code 99457: This code is used for remote evaluation and management services provided by a physician or other qualified healthcare professional to an established patient, for up to 20 minutes of clinical staff time in a calendar month.
