Class Dismissed Anthony Abraham Jack,2024-08-13 A book that examines how structural inequalities directly influence undergraduate life Universities love to talk about diversity They spend millions of dollars advertising just how diverse they are offering diversity statistics that are personalized with pictures But Anthony Jack argues that this is a superficial approach He calls it a gift shop approach that displays groups like trinkets and fails to truly serve students from underrepresented groups Moreover social class is almost entirely absent from the conversation Never before have the platitudes of diversity left universities ill prepared to support their students especially those who are lower income and or first generation than during the COVID 19 pandemic This book sheds lights on how entrenched inequalities in students homes and communities shape undergraduate life through the lens of how students coped with COVID 19 navigated social unrest and experienced problems of race Jack draws on 160 in depth interviews with a representative sample of Asian Black Latino Native and White undergraduates at Harvard and 20 interviews with students from other universities He first examines students home lives prior to college and campus closures and explores how the pandemic shaped their lives away from campus He looks at those who have jobs and explores how the divergent work experiences that students have shape their broader college experience He looks at students strategies for navigating campus including peer group formation and acclimation to college The final empirical chapter explores how students understand and navigate racial unrest both on campus and in America and how their experiences vary by race The conclusion will outline sensible and practical solutions to aid colleges in their quest to help all students Love Interest
